Taste Of Reality A Novel:

A Taste of Reality Kimberla Lawson Roby, 2009-03-17 Kimberla Lawson Roby returns with another moving and triumphant novel about a woman who against all odds battles the most blatant kind of workplace discrimination while dealing with a crumbling marriage and a trusted friend's betrayal. On the surface Anise seems to have it all: a successful career, a solid marriage, and good friends. But when she applies for a promotion at work, she loses out to a white colleague who isn't nearly as qualified for the job. However, the problem at work is only the beginning of Anise's troubles. After being married for four seemingly blissful years, she discovers that her husband is having an affair. And to make matters worse, her best friend at work is keeping dangerous secrets. But Anise is no quitter. As brave as she is determined, she reaches deep inside her soul to find the strength and courage to overcome heartbreak and stay her course. Ultimately, she will discover that what is worth having is worth fighting for in her career and most importantly in her heart. With a compelling plot and writing that captures every emotion, A Taste of Reality is a deeply poignant and unforgettable story.

Public Trials Lida Maxwell, 2015 There are certain moments such as the American founding or the Civil Rights Movement that we revisit again and again as instances of democratic triumph, and there are other moments that haunt us as instances of democratic failure. How should we view moments of democratic failure when both the law and citizens forsake justice? Do such moments reveal a wholesale failure of democracy, or a more contested failing pointing to what could have been and still might be? Public Trials reveals the considerable stakes of how we understand democratic failure. Maxwell argues against a tendency in the thinking of Plato, Rousseau, and contemporary theorists to view moments of democratic failure as indicative of the failure of democracy, inasmuch as such thinking leads to a deference to authority that unintentionally encourages complicity in elite and legal failures to assure justice. In contrast, what Maxwell calls lost cause narratives of democratic failure reveal the contingency of democratic failure by showing that things could have been otherwise, and with public action and response might yet be. A politics of lost causes calls for democratic responsiveness to failure via practices of resistance, theatrical claims making, and re-narration. Maxwell makes a powerful case for the politics of lost causes by examining public controversies over trials. She focuses on the dilemmas and diagnoses of democratic failure in four instances: Edmund Burke's speeches and writings on the Warren Hastings trial in late 18th century Britain; Emile Zola's writings on the Dreyfus Affair in late 19th century France; Hannah Arendt's writings on the Eichmann trial in 1960's Israel; and Kathryn Bigelow's recent narration of the lack of trials of alleged terrorist detainees in Zero Dark Thirty. Maxwell marshals her subtle, historically grounded readings of these texts to show the dangers of despairing of democracy altogether, as well as the necessity of re-narrating instances of democratic failure so as to cultivate public responsiveness to such failures in the future.

The Marx Machine Charles Barbour,2012-06-21 Karl Marx has rarely if ever been treated as a writer Charles Barbour argues not only that we can examine the literary and rhetorical aspects of Marx s texts but also that as soon as we begin to do so those texts begin to take on new and entirely unexpected political implications In the past Marx scholars have characterized his literary remains as either a relatively coherent body of work or a structure cut in half by a single all important epistemological break Neither metaphor really captures the incredible proliferation of documents that we retroactively label Karl Marx Barbour proposes that we characterize them instead as a machine or an assemblage of fragments and components that can be put together and taken apart in any number of different ways for any number of different purposes Focusing primarily on Marx s early polemical writings and especially the debates with Bruno Bauer and Max Stirner that make up most of the voluminous manuscript now called The German Ideology The Marx Machine endeavors to show how some of Marx s most consistently denigrated and ignored works can in fact be approached as responses to Marx s contemporary critics

Revival: Reality and Fiction in Modern Japanese Literature (1980) Noriko Mizuta Lippit,2017-07-28 This title was first published in 1980 In twentieth century Japanese literature the opposition and interaction of realism and romanticism on the level of literary concepts and of Marxism and aestheticism including in part modernism on the level of literary ideology supplies a most vital basis for writers searching for new methods of literary expression fostering debates among the writers and creating the setting for active experimentation with style form and language This study is a result of an extended stay in the United States by the author who turned increasingly toward questioning and evaluating my own relation to Japan s literary heritage For Japanese who have witnessed at least intellectually the violent attraction to and rejection of foreign cultures of many of their predecessors in the Meiji Taisho and Showa eras and their final often sentimental and abstract glorification of the Japanese cultural heritage nihon kaiki return to Japan still presents enormously complex intellectual as well as emotional problems Reality and Idea in the Early American Novel David H. Summary of Gregory Koukl & Nancy Pearcey's The Story of Reality Everest Media,2022-03-27T22:59:00Z Please note This is a companion version not the original book Sample Book Insights 1 The Christian Story starts with a person because the Story is about him It does not start with gods like some other stories or with physical objects like the sun or the moon It starts with one individual infinite perfect Person 2 The Christian story is different from the Muslim story God is not the supreme sovereign in the Christian story but he is the tender subject of our love We belong to God because he made us but we are not simply objects that are owned We are human beings who are precious to God 3 The main point of the Story is that God owns everything and has proper authority to rule over everything he has made The universe is not abandoned to the fates or the blind and brutal forces of the natural world but is carefully managed by a King who is there for us 4 The Kingdom of God is the main theme of the Story It is the place where we find our deepest satisfaction and our greatest fulfillment It is the only place where we can find true rest

Indonesian Women in Focus E.B. Locher-Scholten,A. Niehof,2022-07-18 This volume contains a selection from the papers presented at an interdisciplinary symposium on Images and ideas concerning women and the feminine in the Indonesian archipelago organized in 1984 by the Werkgroep Indonesische Vrouwenstudies WIVS a Dutch interdisciplinary study group on Indonesian women In the present volume now in its second printing notions about women in Indonesia in past and present are treated in relation to their actual positions The articles deal with cultural definitions of sex roles and their social implications and thus link up with the current academic interest in gender studies The contributions occupy varying positions on an imaginary scale ranging from an approach primarily concerned with underlying cultural principles to one focused on the social context. Some show a clearly culturalist approach dealing with female symbols in Balinese offerings, female figures in Indonesian agricultural myths and Tolaki views on procreation and production. The contributions on the images of women in Indonesian literature, views on the prostitute in colonial society and the position of women in marriage in Madura and the Minahasa more or less take an intermediate position. The sociological approach may be found in the contributions on the life of the educational pioneer Rahmah EI Yunusiya on Indonesian Chinese women on priyayi women at the Central Javanese courts and in modern Jakarta and on women's labor in pre-war and present-day Java. Recurring themes such as sexual dualism, ibumi and the questions of female power and authority create unity in the diversity of regions and topics represented.

Fiction, Invention and Hyper-reality Carole M. Cusack, Pavol Kosnáč, 2016-11-18. The twentieth century was a period of rapid change for religion. Secularisation resulted in a dramatic fall in church attendance in the West and the 1950s and 1960s saw the introduction of new religions including the International Society for Krishna Consciousness (ISKCON), the Church of Scientology and the Children of God. New religions were regarded with suspicion by society in general and Religious Studies scholars alike until the 1990s when the emergence of a second generation of new new religions based on popular cultural forms including films, novels, computer games and comic books and highly individualistic spiritualities confirmed the utter transformation of the religious spiritual landscape. Indeed, Scientology and ISKCON appeared almost traditional and conservative when compared to the radically de-institutionalised, eclectic, parodic, fun-loving and experimental fiction-based invented and hyper-real religions. In this book, scholarly treatments of cutting-edge religious and spiritual trends are brought into conversation with contributions by representatives of Dharmaism, the Church of All Worlds, the Temple of the Jedi Order and Tolkien spirituality groups. This book will simultaneously entertain, shock, challenge and delight scholars of religious studies as well as those with a wider interest in new religious movements.

A Taste for the Foreign Ellen R. Welch, 2011-03-14. A Taste for the Foreign examines foreignness as a crucial aesthetic category for the development of prose fiction from Jacques Amyot's 1547 translation of The Ethiopian Story to Antoine Galland's early eighteenth-century version of The Thousand and One Nights. Concentrating on the most successful examples of some of the most important sub-genres of prose fiction in the long seventeenth century: heroic romances, shorter urban novels, fictional memoirs and extraordinary voyages, the book examines how these types of fiction creatively appropriate the scientific or documentary forms of writing that claimed to inform the French public about exotic places.

The Female Reader in the English Novel Joe Bray, 2008-09-25. In the second half of the eighteenth century, the female reader was a frequent topic of cultural debate and moral concern. This book examines the variety of ways in which women read the social world in the late eighteenth and early nineteenth-century novel.

The Reality Effect Joel Black, 2013-08-21. It used to be only movies that were on film; now the whole world is. The most intimate and most banal moments of our lives are constantly recorded for public consumption. In The Reality Effect Joel Black argues that the desire to make visible every aspect of our lives is an impulse derived from cinema one that has made life both more graphic and less real He approaches film as a documentary medium that has obscured if not obliterated the line between reality and fiction To illustrate this effect Black traces the uncanny interplay between movies and real life events through a series of comparative analyses from Lolita and the murder of JonBen t Ramsey to Wag the Dog and the Clinton scandal to Crash and Princess Diana s violent death
