A Taste for Speed John Joseph Kelly, 2010-09-10 Bill Braden was the nephew of Harry Greening Canada's first great raceboat driver in the 1920s Born in Hamilton Ontario he lived there for many years before moving to nearby Waterdown Ontario near the start of W W II He always had a taste for speed purchasing his first motorcycle an Ariel in England at age 19 and going on to motorbike across war threatened Europe in 1935 For the rest of his life he kept fast and fancy cars around his house and reveled in their ownership During World War II he volunteered for the Canadian Army and became a Major in the Royal Canadian Ordnance Corps and served in Canada as well as in England and Northwest Europe from 1941 1945 For a decade after the war he established himself as the top speedboat driver in Canada He drove his own Ariel boats in competitions both in Canada and the United States His reputation was such that in 1951 when Colonel Gordon Thompson of London Ontario purchased Miss Canada IV and renamed her Miss Supertest he hired Bill Braden to drive the boat This began a five year relationship with the Thompson family which culminated in the 1956 Harmsworth Trophy challenge where for the first time a Canadian boat captured one heat off of the American boat and where Bill Braden proved his courage while almost dying behind the wheel of his hydroplane The story had a sad ending two summers later when Will returned to boat racing and was killed in a freak accident while competing for the Duke of York Trophy on Fairy Lake at Huntsville Ontario He left behind a widow and six young children as well as a sterling legacy that has survived five plus decades of scrutiny

A Taste for Empire and Glory Philip Lawson, 2020-09-10 In the decade and a half before his untimely death at 46 Philip Lawson had already achieved more than many historians This posthumously published collection brings together his work on the British overseas expansion during the long 18th century and includes two previously unpublished essays The first articles deal with general issues of approach and interpretation with Canada and the thirteen colonies and with India and the empire of tea The final essays illustrate Anglo Indian relations and the tea trade showing the relationship between the establishment of Indian tea plantations the growth of the tea trade and the political and cultural impact of tea drinking on the British and their colonists Taken together these studies make an outstanding contribution to the field important to anyone interested in the history of Hanoverian Britain as an imperial power

Taste: Media and Interior Design Karin Tehve, 2023-06-26 This book traces and explores the evolution of taste from a design perspective what it is how it works and what it does Karin Tehve examines taste primarily through its recursive relationship to media This ongoing process changes the relationship between designers and the public and our understanding of the relationship of individuals to their social contexts Through an analysis of taste design is understood to be an active constituent of social life not as autonomous from it This book reclaims a term long dismissed from interior design and unveils taste's role as a powerful social and political agent within systems of aesthetics affecting both its producers and consumers Each chapter discusses a taste concept or definition analyzes its reciprocal relationship with media and explores its implications for interior design Illustrated with 70 images taste's relationship to media is viewed through a variety of different lenses including books photography magazines internet social media and algorithms Written primarily for students and scholars of interior design and related design fields this book will be a helpful resource for all those interested in the question of taste and is an invitation to produce and consume all media critically

A Taste of Toronto Ohio, That Is, 1994 Taste of the Nation Camille Bégin, 2016-06-15 During the Depression the Federal Writers Project FWP dispatched scribes to sample the fare at group eating events like church dinners political barbecues and clambakes Its America Eats project sought nothing less than to sample and report upon the tremendous range of foods eaten across the United States Camille Bégin shapes a cultural and sensory history of New Deal era eating from the FWP archives From ravioli the diminutive derbies of pastries the crowns stuffed with a well seasoned paste to barbeque seasoning that integrated salt black pepper dried red chili powder garlic oregano cumin seed and cayenne pepper while tomatoes green chili peppers onions and olive oil made up the sauce Bégin describes in mouth watering detail how Americans tasted their food They did so in ways that varied and varied widely depending on race ethnicity class and region Bégin explores how likes and dislikes cravings and disgust operated within local sensory economies that she culls from the FWP's vivid descriptions visual cues culinary expectations recipes and accounts of restaurant meals She illustrates how nostalgia prescriptive gender ideals and racial stereotypes shaped how the FWP was able to frame regional food cultures as American

The Dialectic of Taste David Michalski, 2015-07-14 The Dialectic of Taste examines the aesthetic economy in the context of economic crises It explains how a new concern for aesthetics seen in artisan markets was born out of the ashes of McDonaldization to become a potent force today capable of both regulating social identity and sparking social change

A Matter of Taste Rebecca

Tucker,2018-11-27 How farmer s markets and organic produce became synonymous with good food and why they shouldn t be How did farmer s markets nose to tail locavorism organic eating CSAs whole foods and Whole Foods become synonymous with good food And are these practices really producing food that is morally environmentally or economically sustainable Rebecca Tucker s compelling reported argument shows that we must work to undo the moral coding that we use to interpret how we come by what we put on our plates She investigates not only the danger of the accepted rhetoric but the innovative work happening on farms and university campuses to create a future where nutritious food is climate change resilient hardy enough to grow season after season and most importantly available to all not just those willing or able to fork over the small fortune required for a perfect heirloom tomato Tucker argues that arriving at that future will require a broad cognitive shift away from the idea that farmer s markets community gardens and organic food production is the only sustainable way forward more than that it will require the commitment of research firms governments corporations and post secondary institutions to develop and implement agriscience innovations that do more than improve the bottom line A Matter of Taste asks us to rethink what good food really is

Clement of Alexandria and the Judgement of Taste J. M. F. Heath,2024-04-22 Clement of Alexandria and the Judgement of Taste Pedagogical Rhetoric and Christian Formation provides a new account of Clement of Alexandria's Paedagogus as a programme in the formation of the judgement of taste situating it in critical dialogue with modern approaches to the judgement of taste and aesthetics. The book's key questions are framed in light of Pierre Bourdieu's Distinction 1979, a landmark in twentieth century scholarship on the theory of taste. J. M. F. Heath studies Clement's rhetoric and theology in the context of the Christian Second Sophistic when Christians were experimenting with new ways of inhabiting the rhetorical and philosophical culture of the Greco-Roman world. The Paedagogus shows Clement's pedagogical method and rhetorical strategy at the early stages of Christian formation when his audience are not yet ready for abstract philosophical argument. This was a time for forming people's habits of judgement and preferences of taste so as to ground their daily lives in deeper desires and aversions that are structured through a relationship with God. This was an immensely important stage of Christian formation many people never got beyond this to any sort of philosophical curriculum and yet through engaging the tastes of a wide audience Christian leaders sought to spread the gospel and succeeded in doing so. Even for the intellectual elites personal formation through preferences of taste was part of how they embodied their desire for God and the way they inhabited it through the sacramental and ascetic life of the church. Bourdieu's sociological and anthropological approach proves fruitful for understanding aspects of Clement's rhetorical method and purpose but the study of Clement's theological rhetoric in its cultural context also in turn points the way to a theological response to Bourdieu's theory of taste.
