TE MAORI-MAORI ART FROM NEW ZEALAND COLLECTIONS. ,1984 Maori Art from New Zealand Collections
Te Maori,1985 Cultural Heritage Issues James A.R. Nafziger,Ann M. Nicgorski,2009-12-07 The global community dependent as always on the cooperation of nation states is gradually learning to address the serious threats to the cultural heritage of our disparate but shared civilizations The legacy of conquest colonialization and commerce looms large in defining and explaining these threats The essays contained in this challenging volume are based on papers presented at an international conference on cultural heritage issues that took place at Willamette University The conference sought to generate fresh ideas about these cultural heritage issues offer a good sense of their nuances and complexities and reveal how culture law and ethics can interact complement diverge and contradict one another This book seeks to accomplish these purposes What it explores is the fact that allong with an emerging blend of adversarial and collaborative processes to address cultural heritage issues has come a substantial broadening of the normative framework in recent years This framework now spans a welter of issues ranging from the creation of cultural safety zones during armed conflict to the ongoing rectification of genocidal conquest during the European Holocaust and World War II to the treatment of shipwrecks and their cargo to the protection of folklore and other intangibles to the promotion of traditional knowledge in the interest of biological diversity All of these topics are controversial as are the legal instruments that incorporate them but the issues they embrace are vital to us all whether our viewpoint is in the global arena a national legislature a courtroom a classroom an archaeological site or a museum A Whakapapa of Tradition Ngarino Ellis,Natalie Robertson,2016-03-21 From the emergence of the chapel and the wharenuī in the nineteenth century to the rejuvenation of carving by Apirana Ngata in the 1920s Maori carving went through a rapid evolution from 1830 to 1930 Focusing on thirty meeting houses Ngarino Ellis tells the story of Ngati Porou carving and a profound transformation in Maori art Beginning around 1830 three previously dominant art traditions waka taua war canoes pataka decorated storehouses and whare rangatira chief s houses declined and were replaced by whare karakia churches whare whakairo decorated meeting houses and wharekai dining halls Ellis examines how and why that fundamental transformation took place by exploring the Iwirakau School of carving based in the Waiapu Valley on the East Coast of the North Island An ancestor who lived around the year 1700 Iwirakau is credited for reinvigorating the art of carving in the Waiapu region The six major carvers of his school went on to create more than thirty important meeting houses and other structures During this transformational period carvers and patrons re negotiated key concepts such as tikanga tradition tapu sacredness and mana power authority embedding them within the new architectural forms whilst preserving rituals surrounding the creation and use of buildings A Whakapapa of Tradition tells us much about the art forms themselves but also analyzes the environment that made carving and building possible the patrons who were the enablers and transmitters of culture the carvers who engaged with modern tools and ideas and the communities as a whole who created the new forms of art and architecture This book is both a major study of Ngati Porou carving and an attempt to make sense of Maori art history What makes a tradition in Maori art Ellis asks How do traditions begin Who decides this Conversely how and why do traditions cease And what forces are at play which make some buildings acceptable and others not Beautifully illustrated with new photography by Natalie Robertson and drawing on the work of key scholars to make a new synthetic whole this book will be a landmark volume in the history of writing about Maori art

Exhibiting the Foreign on U.S. Soil Kathleen Berrin, 2021-07-21 The uneasy relationship between the arts US art museums and the federal government has not been thoroughly explored by scholars This book focuses on the development of national diplomacy exhibitions during World War II and the early Cold War and explains how the War provided the government with an impetus to create a national arts policy It discusses how national diplomacy exhibitions on US soil were deployed as persuasive tools to influence public opinion to reconcile discrepancies between high art and democracy and to resolve America's lagging art status and difficulties with the foreign The type of soft diplomacy that art museums provide by initiating national diplomacy exhibitions has not received emphasis in the scholarly community and art museums have essentially been ignored in cultural studies of the early Cold War Scholarly analysis of museum exhibitions in the last quarter of the 20th century is now a popular topic but investigations of exhibitions between 1939 1960 have been thin By scrutinizing major exhibitions during those formative years this book takes a new perspective and examines the foundational development of the so called blockbuster exhibition stimulated by World War II The book will interest readers in visual studies history museums cultural affairs government and international diplomacy anthropology in the late twentieth century interrogated and depicted the worlds of others past and present in subtle and incisive ways while increasingly questioning its own authority to do so Marxist symbolic and structuralist thought shaped the fieldwork and conclusions of many researchers around the globe Practicing anthropology blossomed and grew rapidly as a subdiscipline in its own right There emerged a keener appreciation of both the history of the discipline and the histories of those studied Archaeologists witnessed a resurgence of interest in the concept of culture The American Anthropologist also made systematic efforts to represent the field as a whole with biological anthropology and linguistics particularly adept at crossing subdiscipline boundaries Proliferation of specialized areas within sociocultural anthropology encouraged work across the subdisciplines The thirty selections in this volume reflect the notable trends and accomplishments in American anthropology during the closing decades of the millennium An introduction by Regna Darnell offers a historical background and critical context that enable readers to better understand the changes and continuity in American anthropology during this time

Beauty in Context Wilfried van Damme, 2021-11-01 This is the first study to survey the field of the anthropology of aesthetics which during the last few decades has emerged on the cross roads between anthropology and non Western art scholarship While critically examining the available literature thereby addressing such basic issues as the existence of aesthetic universals the author elaborates on a central thesis which concerns the relationship between aesthetic preference and sociocultural ideals

Drawing on empirical data from several African cultures he demonstrates that varying notions of beauty are inspired by varying sociocultural ideals thus shedding light on the phenomenon of cultural relativism in aesthetic preference Emphasizing unity within diversity the systematic anthropological approach offered in this volume invites the reader to reconsider aesthetic preference from an empirical cross cultural and contextual perspective Museums and the Interpretation of Visual Culture Eilean Hooper-Greenhill, 2020-11-25 This is a multi disciplinary study that adopts an innovative and original approach to a highly topical question that of meaning making in museums focusing its attention on pedagogy and visual culture This work explores such questions as How and why is it that museums select and arrange artefacts shape knowledge construct a view How do museums produce values How do active audiences make meaning from what they experience in museums This stimulating book provokes debate and discussion on these topics and puts forward the idea of a new museum the post museum which will challenge the familiar modernist museum A must for students and professionals in the field

The Routledge Companion to Museum Ethics Janet Marstine, 2012-05-23 Routledge Companion to Museum Ethics is a theoretically informed reconceptualization of museum ethics discourse as a dynamic social practice central to the project of creating change in the museum Through twenty seven chapters by an international and interdisciplinary group of academics and practitioners it explores contemporary museum ethics as an opportunity for growth rather than a burden of compliance The volume represents diverse strands in museum activity from exhibitions to marketing as ethics is embedded in all areas of the museum sector What the contributions share is an understanding of the contingent nature of museum ethics in the twenty first century its relations with complex economic social political and technological forces and its fluid ever shifting sensibility The volume examines contemporary museum ethics through the prism of those disciplines and methods that have shaped it most It argues for a museum ethics discourse defined by social responsibility radical transparency and shared guardianship of heritage And it demonstrates the moral agency of museums the concept that museum ethics is more than the personal and professional ethics of individuals and concerns the capacity of institutions to generate self reflective and activist practice

Ecological Entanglements in the Anthropocene Nicholas Holm, Sy Taffel, 2016-12-21 This edited collection explores the relationships between humans and nature at a time when the traditional sense of separation between human cultures and a natural wilderness is being eroded The Anthropocene whose literal translation is the Age of Man is one way of marking these planetary changes to the Earth system Global climate change and rising sea levels are two prominent examples of how nature can no longer be simply thought of as something outside and removed from humans and vice versa This collection applies the concepts of ecology and entanglement to address pressing political social and cultural issues surrounding human relationships with the nonhuman world in terms of working with nature It asks are there more or less preferable ways of working with nature What forms and practices might this work take and how do we distinguish between them Is the idea of nature even sufficient to approach such questions or do we need to reconsider using the term nature in favour of terms such as environments ecologies or the broad notion of the non human world How might we forge perspectives and enact practices which build resilience and community across species and spaces constructing relationships with nonhumans which go beyond discourses of pollution degradation and destruction Bringing together a range of contributors from across multiple academic disciplines activists and artists this book examines how these questions might help us understand and assess the different ways in which humans transform engage and interact with the nonhuman world

Being M?ori in the City Natacha Gagné, 2013-01-01 Indigenous peoples around the world have been involved in struggles for decolonization self determination and recognition of their rights and the M ori of Aotearoa New Zealand are no exception Now that nearly 85% of the M ori population have their main place of residence in urban centres cities have become important sites of affirmation and struggle Grounded in an ethnography of everyday life in the city of Auckland Being Maori in the City is an investigation of what being M ori means today One of the first ethnographic studies of M ori urbanization since the 1970s this book is based on almost two years of fieldwork living with M ori families and more than 250 hours of interviews In contrast with studies that have focused on indigenous elites and official groups and organizations Being M ori in the City shines a light on the lives of ordinary individuals and families Using this approach Natacha Gagn adroitly underlines how indigenous ways of being are maintained and even strengthened through change and openness to the larger society
