Immigrant entrepreneurs in a changing institutional context Aliaksei Kazlou, 2019-09-25 Immigrant entrepreneurs are known to be heterogeneous in terms of available resources and entrepreneurial outcomes However this heterogeneity as well as immigrant entrepreneurs embeddedness in social networks and the institutional context of high income welfare states such as Sweden remains understudied Sweden represents an interesting case as a popular immigration destination which liberalized its migration policy for entrepreneurs and changed other regulations encouraging immigrant entrepreneurship after 2008 Theoretically the dissertation contributes to the mixed embeddedness approach to immigrant entrepreneurship by considering three stages of the entrepreneurial process entry performance and potential exit in a changing institutional environment Methodologically the dissertation operationalizes the mixed embeddedness approach by studying these three stages entry propensity to start a business performance entrepreneurial incomes and potential exit duration in business among different categories of immigrants Explanatory factors are drawn from three levels of analysis institutional change macro social ethnic and family networks meso and the individual s human capital micro A range of statistical tools is used for empirical analyses Difference in difference methods in combination with Coarsened Exact Matching and Oaxaca Blinder decomposition are used to investigate the influence of institutional change on entrepreneurial entry and performance Survival models based on Cox regression are applied to investigate the influence of social and family ties on the likelihood of entrepreneurial exit A combination of clustering and association analysis allows heterogeneity to be approached via the categorization of immigrant entrepreneurs Empirically based on rich data from Swedish registers the dissertation reveals that the propensity to start businesses in expanding ICT industries among labour immigrants was increased and performance in terms of income among new immigrant entrepreneurs was improved after institutional change compared to earlier It also stresses that family networks mitigate a lack of other resources for refugee entrepreneurs allowing them to stay in business longer Two main categories of new immigrant entrepreneurs were distinguished in the overall heterogeneous population The dissertation consists of four papers and an introductory chapter Invandrarf retagare uppvisar stor heterogenitet n r det g ller tillg ngliga resurser och framg ng i sitt f retagande Denna heterogenitet liksom invandrarfretagens inbäddning i sociala nätverk och i den svenska välfärdens institutionella kontext är emellertid understuderad. Sverige utgör ett intressant fall eftersom det är ett land med relativt stor invandring som efter 2008 liberaliserade migrationspolitiken för flyktingar och på olika sätt uppmuntrade invandrares flyktingande. Teoretiskt bidrar avhandlingen till mixed embeddedness perspektivet genom att analysera tre stadier i entreprenörprocessen: uppstart, utveckling och eventuell avveckling i flyktinglandet till institutionell flykting. Mixed embeddedness operationaliseras i avhandlingen genom att olika kategorier av invandrare studeras vid olika steg i entreprenörprocessen. Uppstart, benägenhet att starta ett flyktingutvecklingsflyktingarinkomster samt eventuell avveckling, varaktighet i flyktingretaget och genom att förklarande faktorer studeras på tre analysnivåer: institutionell flykting, makro-sociala, etniska och familjenätverk, meso samt individens humankapital, mikro. En rad statistiska verktyg används för de empiriska analyserna: Difference in difference metoder i kombination med Coarsened Exact Matching och Oaxaca-Blinder decomposition används för att undersöka hur institutionella flyktingar påverkar uppstart och utveckling i verlevnadsmodeller baserade på Cox-regression tillämpas för att undersöka hur sociala nätverk och familjeband påverkar sannolikheten för avveckling. Med en kombination av klusteranalys och associationsanalys undersöks mönster i heterogeniteten bland invandrarflyktingarna genom kategorisering. Empiriskt baserat på detaljerade data från svenska register visar avhandlingen att benägenheten att starta verksamhet inom IKT-branschen kade bland arbetskraftsinvandrare samt att inkomsterna bland nya invandrarflyktingare förbättrades efter en period av institutionell flykting. Avhandlingen visar även att familjenätverk motverkar bristen på andra resurser för flyktingar med flyktingbakgrund vilket gör att de kan stanna i verksamheten längre. Två huvudkategorier gör att urskilja i den heterogena gruppen av flyktingar. Avhandlingen är en sammanläggning av fyra artiklar och en inledande kappa.

Once upon a time the three Rs sufficed. Not any more, not for students, not for Americans. Gone the way of the little red school house is simple reading and writing instruction. Surveying an increasingly complex discipline, Literacy in America. An Encyclopedia offers a comprehensive overview of all the latest trends in literacy education: conceptual understanding of texts, familiarity with electronic content, and the ability to create meaning from visual imagery and media messages. Educators and academicians call these skills multiple literacies, shorthand for the kind of literacy skills and abilities needed in an age of information overload, media hype, and Internet connectedness. With its 400 A-Z entries researched by experts and written in accessible prose, Literacy in America is the only reference tool students, teachers, and parents will need to understand what it means to be and become literate in 21st-century America.
