The Life and Career of Edward Porter Alexander Charles River Editors, 2025-06-21 In the narrative of the Civil War Edward Porter Alexander has loomed larger in death than in life Just 25 years old when the war broke out Porter Alexander had already served as an engineer and officer in the U S Army but the native Georgian resigned his commission in May 1861 and joined the Confederacy after his home state seceded Porter Alexander spent 1861 as an intelligence officer and he served as part of a signal guard but he soon became chief of ordnance for Joseph Johnston s army near Richmond Half a year later Johnston would be injured during the Peninsula Campaign at the Battle of Seven Pines after which he was replaced by Robert E Lee Over the course of 1862 Porter Alexander took on more roles in the Army of Northern Virginia s artillery branch particularly under James Longstreet s 1st Corps Though he participated in several battles he played his biggest role at the Battle of Gettysburg On the third day Lee decided to make a thrust at the center of the Union s line with about 15 000 men spread out over three divisions Though it is now known as Pickett s Charge named after division commander George Pickett the assignment for the charge was given to Longstreet whose 1st Corps included Pickett s division Lee s decision necessitated a heavy artillery bombardment of the Union line in an attempt to knock out the Union s own artillery before beginning the charge that would cover nearly a mile of open space from Seminary Ridge to the Union line on Cemetery Ridge Lee tasked Porter Alexander in charge of the 1st Corps guns to conduct the artillery bombardment What resulted was the largest sustained bombardment of the Civil War with over 150 Confederate cannons across the line firing incessantly at the Union line for nearly 2 hours Unfortunately for Porter Alexander and the Confederates the sheer number of cannons belched so much smoke that they had trouble gauging how effective the shells were As it turned out most of the artillery was overshooting the target landing in the rear of the Union line Reluctant to order the charge Longstreet commanded Porter Alexander to order the timing for the charge As Longstreet and Alexander anticipated the charge was an utter disaster incurring a nearly 50% casualty rate and failing to break the Union line Porter Alexander would continue to serve under Longstreet s corps for most of the rest of the war and he famously suggested to Lee at Appomattox that the Confederate army should disband and melt away instead of surrender Porter Alexander would later regret the suggestion and Lee scolded him for it anyway Though he had served with distinction during the Civil War it was Porter Alexander s memoirs that have kept his name alive today While many prominent officers on both sides wrote memoirs Porter Alexander s were among the most insightful and often considered by historians as the most evenhanded With a sense of humor and a good narrative Porter Alexander skillfully narrated the war his service and what he considered the successes and faults of others including Lee when he thought they had made good decisions or mistakes As a result historians continue to rely heavily on his memoirs as a source for Civil War history

The Oxford History of the British Army David G. Chandler, Ian Frederick William Beckett, 2003 From longbow pike and musket to Challenger tanks from the Napoleonic Wars to the Gulf Campaign from the Duke of Marlborough to Field Marshal Montgomery this stimulating and informative book recounts the history of the British army from its medieval antecedents to the present day Commanders campaigns battles organizations and weaponry are all covered in detail within the wider context of the social economic and political environment in which armies exist and fight making this the definitive one volume history of the British army for specialists and non specialists alike Antietam National Battlefield and National Cemetery, Sharpsburg, Maryland Charles W. Snell, Sharon A. Brown, 1986 The Commercial & Financial Chronicle ..., 1916 Chinese War Correspondents Shixin Ivy Zhang, 2016-10-19 This book engages with the Chinese mediation of wars and conflicts in the global environment Proposing a new cascading media and conflict model it applies this to the study of war correspondents from six levels media policy relations journalistic objectivity role perceptions news framing and peace war journalism news practices and audience Based on interviews with 23 Chinese journalists and case study analysis of the Libyan War Syrian War Afghanistan War and Israeli Palestinian conflict the book demonstrates that a new breed of Chinese war correspondents has emerged today They undergo a complex and nuanced mediated communication process Neither traditionally Chinese in their approach nor western in their perceptions they are uniquely pragmatic in negotiating their roles in a complex web of internal and external actors and factors The core ideology seems to be anti West in defiance of the US hegemony and the bias of global media as well as neutral Muslims Exploring the role perceptions values norms and practices of contemporary Chinese war correspondents who go outside China to bring the distant culture back home this text is key reading for scholars and students in international journalism international communication war and peace studies international relations and Chinese studies Daily Report, 1994 Superforecasting Philip E. Tetlock, Dan Gardner, 2015-09-29 NEW YORK TIMES BESTSELLER NAMED ONE OF THE BEST BOOKS OF THE YEAR BY THE ECONOMIST The most important book on decision making since Daniel Kahneman's Thinking Fast and Slow Jason Zweig The Wall Street Journal Everyone would benefit from seeing further into the future whether buying stocks crafting policy launching a new product or simply planning the week's meals Unfortunately people tend to be terrible forecasters As Wharton professor Philip Tetlock showed in a landmark 2005 study even experts predictions are only slightly better than chance However an important and underreported conclusion of that study was that some experts do have real foresight and Tetlock has spent the past decade trying to figure out why What makes some people so good And can this talent be taught In Superforecasting Tetlock and coauthor Dan Gardner offer a masterwork on prediction drawing on decades of research and the results of a massive government funded forecasting tournament The Good Judgment Project involves tens of thousands of ordinary people including a Brooklyn filmmaker a retired pipe installer and a former ballroom dancer who set out to forecast global events Some of the volunteers have turned out to be astonishingly good They've beaten other benchmarks competitors and prediction markets They've even beaten the collective judgment of intelligence analysts with access to classified information They are superforecasters In this groundbreaking and accessible book Tetlock and Gardner show us how we can learn from this elite group Weaving together stories of forecasting successes the raid on Osama bin Laden's compound and failures like the Bay of Pigs and interviews with a range of high level decision makers from David Petraeus to Robert Rubin they show that good forecasting doesn't require powerful computers or arcane methods It involves gathering evidence from a variety of sources thinking probabilistically working in teams keeping score and being willing to admit error and change course Superforecasting offers the first demonstrably effective way to improve our ability to predict the future whether in business finance politics international affairs or daily life and is destined to become a modern classic
