cook Symons sets out to explore the civilizing role of cooks in history His wanderings take us to the clay ovens of the prehistoric eastern Mediterranean and the bronze cauldrons of ancient China to fabulous banquets in the temples and courts of Mesopotamia Egypt and Persia to medieval English cookshops and southeast Asian street markets to palace kitchens diners and modern fast food eateries Symons samples conceptions and perceptions of cooks and cooking from Plato and Descartes to Marx and Virginia Woolf asking why cooks despite their vital and central role in sustaining life have remained in the shadows unheralded unregarded and underappreciated People think of meals as occasions where you share food he notes they rarely think of cooks as sharers of food Considering such notions as the physical and political consequences of sauce connections between food and love and cooking as a regulator of clock and calendar Symons provides a spirited and diverting defense of a cook centered view of the world

New SubUrbanisms Judith K De Jong,2013-09-11 Historically we see the city as the cramped crumbling core of development and culture and the suburb as the vast outlying wasteland convenient but vacant Contemporary urban design proves this wrong In New SubUrbanisms Judith De Jong explains the on going flattening of the American Metropolis as suburbs are becoming more like their central cities and cities more like their suburbs through significant changes in spatial and formal practice as well as demographic and cultural changes These revisionist practices are exemplified in the emergence of hybrid sub urban conditions such as parking practices the residential densification of suburbia hyper programmed public spaces and inner city big box retail among others Each of these hybridized conditions reflects to varying degrees the reciprocating influences of the urban and the suburban Each also offers opportunities for innovation in new formal and spatial practices that re configure conventional understandings of urban and suburban and in new ways of forming the evolving American metropolis Based on this new understanding De Jong argues for the development of new ways of building the city Aimed at students and practitioners of urban design and planning New SubUrbanisms attempts to re frame the contemporary metropolis in a way that will generate more instrumental engagement and ultimately better design made from the beginning of its existence To be human is to be able and willing to choose among the options that are offered to the human species by the natural order of things This book examines human species not only on the basis of the biological and psychological attributes it shares with animal species but more by identifying its choices throughout pre history and history Catalogue: Authors Peabody Museum of Archaeology and Ethnology.
