The First Of Mars:

Marswalk One Shayler David, Andrew Salmon, Michael D. Shayler, 2007-07-05 MARSWALK ONE First Steps on a New Planet addresses the question of why we should embark on a journey to Mars documenting what the first human crew will do when they place their feet in the red dust of the planet The book also addresses why we need to carry out these tasks and more importantly what a human crew could achieve that an automated mission could not Understanding the clear benefits of sending a human crew to the surface of Mars and how these benefits can be seen back on Earth is the key to sustained long term public and political support for the programme in terms of cash and commitment The book accepts that the journey will be made but does not specify precisely when Flight time and how to get to and from the planet are discussed briefly to understand why the suggested duration spent at Mars is reasonable The main objective of the work is to look at what science will be done on the surface supported by orbital operations and what hardware and technology will be employed to achieve the mission objectives This analysis is drawn from previous experiences in manned and unmanned space programmes including Apollo Skylab Salyut Mir Shuttle and ISS Viking Luna Lunokhod and recent Mars missions such as Pathfinder and Global Surveyor In addition new interviews with key personalities involved in planning Martian exploration and discussions about current thoughts on what we need to accomplish on Mars when we get there will provide a lively and thought provoking account that could generate fresh debate When the decision is finally made to go to Mars it will be made in the knowledge that most of the world knows why we are going and what benefits mankind will see for the effort The authors primary objective is to begin this understanding Humans to Mars David S. Pathways to Exploration National Research Council, Division of Behavioral and Social Sciences and Education, Committee on National Statistics, Division on Engineering and Physical Sciences, Space Studies Board, Aeronautics and Space Engineering Board, Committee on Human Spaceflight, 2014-09-30 The United States has publicly funded its human spaceflight program on a continuous basis for more than a half century through three wars and a half dozen recessions from the early Mercury and Gemini suborbital and Earth orbital missions to the lunar landings and thence to the first reusable winged crewed spaceplane that the United States operated for three decades Today the United States is the major partner in a massive orbital facility the International Space Station that is becoming the focal point for the first tentative steps in commercial cargo and crewed orbital space flights And yet the long term future of human spaceflight beyond this project is unclear Pronouncements by multiple presidents of bold new ventures by Americans to the Moon to Mars and to an asteroid in its native orbit have not been matched by the same commitment that accompanied President Kennedy's now fabled 1961 speech namely the substantial increase in NASA funding needed to make it happen Are we still committed to advancing human spaceflight What should a long term goal be and what does the United States need to do to achieve it Pathways to Exploration explores the case for advancing this endeavor drawing on the history of rationales for human spaceflight examining the attitudes of stakeholders and the public and carefully assessing the technical and fiscal realities This report recommends maintaining the long term focus on Mars as the horizon goal for human space exploration With this goal in mind the report considers funding levels necessary to maintain a robust tempo of execution current research and exploration projects and the time resources needed to continue them and international cooperation that could contribute to the achievement of spaceflight to Mars According to Pathways to Exploration a successful U S program would require sustained national commitment and a budget that increases by more than the rate of inflation In reviving a U S human exploration program capable of answering the enduring questions about humanity's destiny beyond our tiny blue planet the nation will need to grapple with the attitudinal and fiscal realities of the nation today while staying true to a small but crucial set of fundamental principles for the conduct of exploration of the endless frontier The recommendations of Pathways to Exploration provide a clear map toward a human spaceflight program that inspires students and citizens by furthering human exploration and discovery while taking into account the long term commitment necessary to achieve this goal

Entering Space Robert Zubrin, 2000-08-07 Robert Zubrin is a true engineering genius like the heroic engineers of the past Frederick Turner American Enterprise Using nuts and bolts engineering and a unique grasp of human history Robert Zubrin takes us to the not very distant future when our global society will branch out into the universe From the current day prospect of lunar bases and Mars settlements to the outer reaches of other galaxies Zubrin delivers the most important and forward looking work on space and the true possibilities of human exploration since Carl Sagan s Cosmos Sagan himself said of Zubrin s humans to Mars plan Bob Zubrin really nearly alone changed our thinking on this issue With Entering Space he takes us further into the prospect of human expansion to the outer planets of our own solar system and beyond Spinoff ,2006
