English brings together essays that respond to consequential cultural and socio economic changes that followed the expansion of the British Empire from the British Isles across the Atlantic. Scholars track the cumulative power of the slave trade, settlements and plantations and the continual warfare that reshaped lives in the Americas, Africa and Asia. Importantly, they also analyze the ways these histories reshaped class and social relations, scientific inquiry and invention, philosophies of personhood and cultural and intellectual production. As European nations fought each other for territories and trade routes, dispossessing and enslaving Indigenous and Black people, the observations of travellers, naturalists and colonists helped consolidate racism and racial differentiation as well as the philosophical justifications of civilizational differences that became the hallmarks of intellectual life. Essays in this volume address key shifts in disciplinary practices even as they examine the past looking forward to and modeling a rethinking of our scholarly and pedagogic practices. This volume is an essential text for academics, researchers and students researching eighteenth century literature, history and culture.

Mechanics of Debris Avalanching in Shallow Till Soils of Southeast Alaska Douglas N. Swanston, 1970     Enabling Engagements Judith Owens, 2002-04-04

Enabling Engagements contributes to current critical debates regarding early modern subjectivity and early modern cultural capital. In stressing the boldness of Edmund Spenser's poetics of patronage, Judith Owens shows that Elizabethans could and did exercise agency within a wide range of institutions. By consistently challenging assumptions of courtly hegemony in early modern society, Owens suggests a new appraisal of the processes of cultural commodification. Enabling Engagements challenges conventional assessments of Spenser as court centred and of patronal relations in the early modern period as asymmetrical and prescriptive. Owens demonstrates that Spenser exercised a vigorous sense of agency within the close quarters of patronage and courtly culture, fashioning his laureate's role and envisioning nationhood in resistance to the centre. She shows that his independence from court centred values and tropes informed his poetics from the start of his publishing career, not just as a result of increasing disillusionment with the court. Owens develops detailed readings of Spenser's poetry and his paratextual material in The Shepheardes Calender (1590), The Faerie Queene and Complaints, providing contexts that are both broader and more varied than those usually accorded Spenser's poetry. She extends the horizons of The Faerie Queene in particular to include not only court and sovereign but also London, the material conditions of early modern publishing and Ireland. Bringing together concerns usually approached individually, she shows us a Spenser who is neither the careerist of much recent criticism nor the Elizabethan propagandist of long standing custom.

Robin Hood and His Merry Foresters Joseph Cundall, 1850     The Waning of the Green Mark G. McGowan, 1999

Most historical accounts of the Irish Catholic community in Toronto describe it as a poor underclass of society, ghettoised by the largely British Protestant population and characterised by the sectarian violence between Protestants and Catholics that earned Toronto the title Belfast of Canada. Challenging this long standing view of the Irish Catholic experience, Mark McGowan provides a new picture of the community's evolution and integration into Canadian society McGowan traces the evolution of the Catholic community from an isolated religious and Irish ethnic subculture in the late nineteenth century into an integrated segment of English Canadian society by the early twentieth century English speaking Catholics moved into all neighbourhoods of the city and socialised with and married non Catholics They even embraced their own brand of imperialism by 1914 thousands of them had enlisted to fight for God and the British Empire McGowan s detailed and lively portrait will be of great interest to students and scholars of religious history Irish studies ethnic history and Canadian history Mark G McGowan is associate professor of history at St Michael s College University of Toronto     Forester's Companion A.
