The First Birth, a Family Turning Point Doris R. Entwisle, Susan G. Doering, 1981      The First Birth, a Family Turning Point Doris R. Entwisle, Susan G. Doering, 1981      After the Baby Rhonda Nordin, 2000-04-01 Conversational and practical After the Baby teaches couples about the natural progression of their marriage as it expands to include children An essential guide for strengthening marriage while becoming parents it offers both help and hope for building better families

Understanding Family Process Carlfred B. Broderick, 1993-03-09 Systems theory is the basic theoretical model underlying most contemporary family therapy In this accessible introduction the author traces how systems theory gave rise to family systems theory outlines the basic propositions of family systems and links it both to other family theory literature and to clinical practice Among the topics covered are relational space family boundaries family stratification and child socialization Family meanings and such shared realities as family folklore stories myths and memorabilia are discussed Family rituals are also explored      The Me I Know Susan Krauss Whitbourne, 2012-12-06 For the last 5 years I have been living with 94 adults These 94 adults made up the sample of people in a study on adult development that Dale Dannefer and I began in 1980 This book represents my efforts to condense the almost 200 hours of tape recorded material from the 94 adults into a form that captures at least some of the diversity and also some of the commonalities in their answers to the question Who am I My version of their answers is based on their reflections about themselves as family members workers and people with a goal in life In arriving at the conclusion that adults attempt to see themselves as loved competent and good human beings I believe that I have done justice to these people and their answers to my interview questions Arriving at the point of being able to write about these 94 people's identities has not been an easy process Countless attempts at numerically based rating systems were tried and discarded progressively until finally I decided to read all the transcripts in sequence person by person rather than question by question What I found when I approached them as total individuals was surprising to me I found a vibrant theme of certainty and self assuredness in their identities that flew in the face of my previous ideas about developmental change in adulthood      The Transition to Parenthood Gerald Y. Michaels, Wendy A. Goldberg, 1988-10-13 This 1988 book brings together leading scholars from a range of disciplines concerned with the study of the transition to parenthood The text discusses the reasons why some new parents experience an enhanced sense of self and a deepening of important relationships whereas others experience crisis and conflict      Psychosocial Adaptation to Pregnancy Regina Lederman, Karen Weis, 2009-09-16 presented in the Introduction Chapter 1 The focus of Chapter 1 is twofold 1 to present the research foundations for the psychophysiological correlates of prenatal psychosocial adaptation and the seven prenatal personality dimensions with progress in labor and birth outcomes and particularly 2 to present the theory underlying the seven dimensions of prenatal psychosocial adaptation which are further analyzed in the following seven chapters Chapters 2-8 present a content analysis of the interview responses to the seven significant prenatal personality

Categories and Contexts Simon Szreter, Hania Sholkamy, A. Dharmalingam, 2004-03-18 Throughout its history as a social science demography has been associated with an exclusively quantitative orientation for studying social problems As a result demographers tend to analyse population issues scientifically through sets of fixed social categories that are divorced from dynamic relationships and local contexts and processes This volume questions these fixed categories in two ways First it examines the historical and political circumstances in which such categories had their provenance and second it reassesses their uncritical applications over space and time in a diverse range of empirical case studies encouraging throughout a constructive interdisciplinary dialogue involving anthropologists demographers historians and sociologists This volume seeks to examine the political complexities that lie at the heart of population studies by focusing on category formation category use and category critique It shows that this takes the form of a dialectic between the needs for clarity of scientific and administrative analysis and the recalcitrant diversity of the social contexts and human processes that generate population change The critical reflections of each chapter are enriched by meticulous ethnographic fieldwork and historical research drawn from every continent This volume therefore exemplifies a new methodology for research in population studies one that does not simply accept and re use the established categories of population science but seeks critically and reflexively to explore test and re evaluate their meanings in diverse contexts It shows that for demography to realise its full potential it must urgently re examine and contextualize the social categories used today in population research Close Encounters Laura K.
