Smell Of Sawdust:

How the Body Shapes the Way We Think Rolf Pfeifer, Josh Bongard, 2006-10-27 An exploration of embodied intelligence and its implications points toward a theory of intelligence in general with case studies of intelligent systems in ubiquitous computing business and management human memory and robotics How could the body influence our thinking when it seems obvious that the brain controls the body In How the Body Shapes the Way We Think Rolf Pfeifer and Josh Bongard demonstrate that thought is not independent of the body but is tightly constrained and at the same time enabled by it They argue that the kinds of thoughts we are capable of have their foundation in our embodiment in our morphology and the material properties of our bodies This crucial notion of embodiment underlies fundamental changes in the field of artificial intelligence over the past two decades and Pfeifer and Bongard use the basic methodology of artificial intelligence understanding by building to describe their insights If we understand how to design and build intelligent systems they reason we will better understand intelligence in general In accessible nontechnical language and using many examples they introduce the basic concepts by building on recent developments in robotics biology neuroscience and psychology to outline a possible theory of intelligence They illustrate applications of such a theory in ubiquitous computing business and management and the psychology of human memory Embodied intelligence as described by Pfeifer and Bongard has important implications for our understanding of both natural and artificial intelligence

Why Life Speeds Up As You Get Older Douwe Draaisma, 2004-11-04 Is it true as the novelist Cees Nooteboom once wrote that Memory is like a dog that lies down where it pleases Where do the long lazy summers of our childhood go Why is it that as we grow older time seems to condense speed up elude us while in old age significant events from our distant past can seem as vivid and real as what happened yesterday In this enchanting and thoughtful book Douwe Draaisma author of the internationally acclaimed Metaphors of Memory explores the nature of autobiographical memory Applying a unique blend of scholarship poetic sensibility and keen observation he tackles such extraordinary phenomena as d j vu near death experiences the memory feats of idiot savants and the effects of extreme trauma on memory recall Raising almost as many questions as it answers this fascinating book will not fail to touch you at the same time as it educates and entertains

Haunted Naperville Diane A. Ladley, 2009 Established in 1831 Naperville is one of the oldest settlements in the Greater Chicago area The city's rich and fascinating heritage has been carefully passed down from one proud generation to the next however nowhere has Naperville's ghostly oral tradition and haunted history been preserved until now Most of Naperville's unique legends compiled for the first time ever in these pages arose from accounts of actual historic events and from the lives of notable personages in the city's long history As the tragic events and persons faded from living memory all that might remain of them would be ghost stories whispered by firelight and later by flashlight tucked under a teenager's chin at slumber parties Some eerie legends in these pages have origins that are lost in time and still other hair raising ghost stories included in this work are chilling contemporary firsthand accounts of paranormal encounters within Naperville's sprawling boundaries perhaps from even just down the street

Dynamical Cognitive Science Lawrence M. Ward, 2002 An introduction to the application of dynamical systems science to the cognitive sciences Dynamical Cognitive Science makes available to the cognitive science community the analytical tools and techniques of dynamical systems science adding the variables of change and time to the study of human cognition The unifying theme is that human behavior is an unfolding in time whose study should be augmented by the application of time sensitive tools from disciplines such as physics mathematics and economics where change over time is of central importance The book provides a fast paced comprehensive introduction to the application of dynamical systems science to the cognitive sciences Topics include linear and nonlinear time series analysis chaos theory complexity theory relaxation oscillators and metatheoretical issues of modeling and theory building Tools and techniques are discussed in the context of their application to basic cognitive science problems including perception memory psychophysics judgment and decision making and consciousness The final chapter summarizes the contemporary study of consciousness and suggests how dynamical approaches to cognitive science can help to advance our understanding of this central concept

Locating Consciousness Valerie Gray Hardcastle, 1995 Locating Consciousness argues that our qualitative experiences should be aligned with the activity of a single and distinct memory system in our mind brain Spelling out in detail what we do and do not know about phenomenological experience this book denies the common view of consciousness as a central decision making system Instead consciousness is viewed as a lower level dynamical structure underpinning our information processing This new perspective affords novel solutions to a wide range of problems the absent qualia the binding problem the inverted spectra the specter of epiphenomenalism the explanatory gap the distinction between objective and subjective and the general skeptical doubts about the viability of the naturalist project itself Drawing on recent data in psychology and neuroscience Locating Consciousness also discusses when we become conscious and when we should think other animals are conscious Series A

A Dynamic Systems Approach to the Development of Cognition and Action Esther Thelen, Linda B. Smith, 1994 A Dynamic Systems Approach to the Development of Cognition and Action presents a comprehensive and detailed theory of early human development based on the principles of dynamic systems theory Beginning with their own research in motor perceptual and cognitive development Thelen and Smith raise fundamental questions about prevailing assumptions in the field They propose a new theory of the development of cognition and action unifying recent advances in dynamic systems theory with current research in neuroscience and neural development In particular they show how by processes of exploration and selection multimodal experiences form the bases for self organizing perception action categories Thelen and Smith offer a radical alternative to current cognitive theory both in their emphasis on dynamic representation and in their focus on processes of change Among the first attempt to apply complexity theory to psychology they suggest reinterpretations of several classic issues in early cognitive development The book is divided into three sections The first discusses the nature of developmental processes in general terms the second covers dynamic principles in process and mechanism and the third looks at how a dynamic theory can be applied to enduring puzzles of development Cognitive Psychology series Embodiment and Cognitive Science Raymond W. Gibbs, Jr,2005-12-05 This 2006 book explores how people s subjective felt experiences of their bodies in action provide part of the fundamental grounding for human cognition and language Cognition is what occurs when the body engages the physical and cultural world and must be studied in terms of the dynamical interactions between people and the environment Human language and thought emerge from recurring patterns of embodied activity that constrain ongoing intelligent behavior We must not assume cognition to be purely internal symbolic computational and disembodied but seek out the gross and detailed ways that language and thought are inextricably shaped by embodied action Embodiment and Cognitive Science describes the abundance of empirical evidence from many disciplines including work on perception concepts imagery and reasoning language and communication cognitive development and emotions and consciousness that support the idea that the mind is embodied Hyde-Murphy Company, The Dennis McGeehan,2021 The Hyde Murphy Company was one of the largest and most renowned specialty woodworking mills in the United States The company was a producer of high quality architectural millwork and constructed elegant homes businesses and public buildings around the country with offices in New York Philadelphia Pittsburgh and Washington DC The company was founded in 1901 when two families merged their business interests The business survived a devastating fire rebuilding and prospering and its artistic distinctive woodwork can be seen today in the Library of Congress the Pentagon the Supreme Court and the Smithsonian Institution The Hyde Murphy Company ceased operation in 1961 Back cover Breath of a Wandering City Leaf Kartikey Grover, This anthology consists of 70 poems taking deep inspiration from nature and personifying it to express subtle emotions and moments from daily life The poetry presented deals with everyday happenings around us The poet finds comfort in seeking hope and believing in a purpose for life Though finding a purpose is itself a lucky chance once a soul finds it then for the poet comes the real brunt of daily consistent hard work It s this hard work which makes an individual humble and often finds oneself on a less crowded path This journey which is not easy makes us very sensitive to the struggles of others and develops a sense of empathy It also helps bond with others who are on such journeys Kartikey s poems find such a connection deeply with nature which is consistent on this journey of change The soul of nature has a purpose and is honest Kartikey s poems try to find a bond with these kinds of souls It is when this group of souls is formed it is true happiness for the poet Poison Spring Johnny D.
