O'Sullivan,A. Morrell,M. O'Connor,2016-04-30

Transformative learning involves experiencing a deep structural shift in the basic premises of thought feelings and actions It is a shift of consciousness that dramatically and permanently alters our way of being in the world Such a shift involves our understanding of ourselves and our self locations our relationships with other humans and with the natural world our understanding of relations of power in interlocking structures of class race and gender our body awarenesses our visions of alternative approaches to living and our sense of possibilities for social justice and peace and personal joy The editors of this collection make several challenges to the existing field of transformative learning the first is to theoreticians who have attempted to describe the nature of transformative learning without regard to the content of transformative learning The editors argue that transformative learning theory cannot be constructed in a content neutral or context free way Their second challenge which assumes the importance content for transformative learning is to educators as practitioners The editors argue that transformative learning requires new educational practices consistent with the content Arts based research and arts based teaching learning practices are one example of such new educational practices Education for the soul or spiritual practices such as meditation or modified martial arts or indigenous peoples forms of teaching learning is another example Each article in the collection presents a possible model of these new practices True to Life Elementary Teacher's Book Joanne Collie, Stephen Slater, 1995-09-28 True to Life is a five level course designed specifically for adult learners

The Role of interest in Learning and Development K. Ann Renninger, Suzanne Hidi, Andreas Krapp, Ann Renninger, 2014-02-04 Interest is just emerging as a critical bridge between cognitive and affective issues in both learning and development This developing interest in interest appears to be linked to an increasing concern for studying the individual in context examining affective variables as opposed to purely structural features of text analyzing the interrelationship of cognitive and social development understanding practical applications of theories of motivation and recognizing the importance of developmental psychology for the study of learning This book addresses both how individual interest and interest inherent in stimuli books text toys etc across subjects affect cognitive performance While the book's particular emphasis is on theory driven research each of the contributing authors offers a unique perspective on understanding interest and its effects on learning and development As such each has contributed a chapter in which particular questions in interest research are described and linked to a clearly stated theoretical perspective and recent findings Relevant material from the broader literatures of psychology and education are analyzed in the context of these discussions In addition the introductory and concluding chapters build on the contributions to the volume by providing the basis of a coherent view of interest across genres such as stories and expository text and domains as varied as play reading and mathematics
