Stereoscopic Cinema and the Origins of 3-D Film, 1838-1952 Ray Zone, 2014-04-23 From stereoview cards to large format IMAX films 3 D technology's heightened realism and powerful visual allure have held audiences captive for over a century and a half The technology known as stereoscopy creates an illusion of depth by presenting two slightly different images to the eye in print or on screen The advent of stereoscopic film technology excited both filmmakers and audiences as a means of replicating all of the sounds colors movement and dimensionality of life and nature for the first time The origins of 3 D film are often linked with a proliferation of stereoscopic films in the 1950s By the time films like Man in the Dark and House of Wax was attracting large crowds however the technology behind this form of filmmaking was already over a century old Stereoscopic Cinema and the Origins of 3 D Film 1838-1952 examines this novelty period of stereoscopic film charting its progression from Charles Wheatstone's 1838 discovery of 3 D to the 1952 release of Arch Oboler's innovative film Bwana Devil Stereoscopic specialist Ray Zone argues that the development of stereoscopic film can best be understood through a historical analysis of the technology rather than of its inventors Zone examines the products used to create stereoscopic images noting such milestones as David Brewster's and Oliver Wendell Holmes's work with stereoscopes the use of polarizing image selection and the success of twin strip 3 D films among others In addition Zone looks at the films produced up to 1952 discussing public reception of early 3 D short films as well as longer features such as Power of Love in single strip anaglyphic projection in 1922 and Semyon Ivanov's 1941 autostereoscope Robinson Crusoe He integrates his examination of the evolution of 3 D film with other cinematic developments demonstrating the connection between stereoscopic motion pictures and modern film production Stereoscopic Cinema and the Origins of 3 D Film 1838 1952 is an exhaustive study of not only the evolution of 3 D technology and the subsequent filmmaking achievements but also the public response to and cultural impact of 3 D movies Zone takes the reader on a voyage of discovery into the rich history of a field that predates photography and that continues to influence television and computer animation today

Derek Jarman and Lyric Film Steven Dillon, 2004-04-01 Derek Jarman was the most important independent filmmaker in England during the 1980s Using emblems and symbols in associative contexts rather than conventional cause and effect narrative he created films noteworthy for their lyricism and poetic feeling and for their exploration of the gay experience His style of filmmaking also links Jarman with other prominent directors of lyric film including Pier Paolo Pasolini Andrei Tarkovsky Jean Cocteau and Jean Genet This pathfinding book places Derek Jarman in the tradition of lyric film and offers incisive readings of all eleven of his feature length films from Sebastiane to Blue Steven Dillon looks at Jarman and other directors working in a similar vein to establish how lyric films are composed through the use of visual imagery and actual poetry He then traces Jarman's use of imagery notably mirrors and the sea in his films and discusses in detail the relationship between cinematic representations and sexual identity This insightful reading of Jarman's work helps us better understand how films such as The Last of England and The Garden can be said to cohere and mean without being reduced to clear messages Above all Dillon's book reveals how truly beautiful and brilliant Jarman's movies are
