C. Grove, 2017-11-20 Excerpt from The Frosty Caucasus An Account of a Walk Through Part of the Range and of an Ascent of Elbruz in the Summer of 1874 A short stay here gave time for a glimpse of this famous and now very miserable city where the Jews in their long black coats swarmed so that it seemed as if the place was populated by undertakers only they were not undertakers but money changers though how so many of them could make a living where there seemed to be so little business doing was and is a mystery I fear indeed that this apparently the only industry of Cracow is not flourishing for when one of us changed a small sum a number of Jews came to watch the transaction glaring with hungry looks as poor children do through the windows of pastry cooks sheps at the happy people who can afford to go in and buy From Cracow the way had been past Lemberg to pod wolcyska on the Russian frontier and thence through the remains of a great forest and afterwards over a vast fertile plain dotted in many places with Windmills to Odessa About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works
