The Guided Reinvention of Language Andrew Lock,1980      Language Development and Disorders W. Yule,M. Rutter,1987 Communication disabilities are common although their precise nature and degree of severity vary greatly among individuals They are among the most handicapping of disabilities because they isolate a person and in so doing restrict social educational and occupational opportunities One of the purposes of this book was to bring together theoretical practical and clinical knowledge from several disciplines that bear on language and communication into some reasonably accessible form The intent is to provide a broad and multi faceted view of language development and language disorders Thus contributions from education linguistics psychology pediatrics psychiatry neurology neuropsychology and speech therapy are included They describe our current knowledge of language development suggest classifications for language pathology outline what is known of the epidemiology of language difficulties consider assessment and therapy alternative communication systems and the impact of the new technology on communication aids The variety of perspectives that it provides will make it particularly useful to the range of specialists who are concerned with the development of communication skills and language disorders

Biological and Behavioral Determinants of Language Development Norman A. Krasnegor,Duane M. Rumbaugh,Richard L. Schiefelbusch,Michael Studdert-Kennedy,Esther Thelen,2014-02-25 This book presents a current interdisciplinary perspective on language requisites from both a biological comparative perspective and from a developmental learning perspective Perspectives regarding language and language acquisition are advanced by scientists of various backgrounds speech hearing developmental psychology comparative psychology and language intervention This unique volume searches for a rational interface between findings and perspectives generated by language studies with humans and with chimpanzees Intended to render a reconsideration as to the essence of language and the requisites to its acquisition it also provides readers with perspectives defined by various revisionists who hold that language might be other than the consequence of a mutation unique to humans and might fundamentally not be limited to speech      Individual Freedom in Language Teaching Christopher Brumfit,2013-12-02 The book draws upon linguistic psychological philosophical and sociolinguistic principles and uses practical examples from second foreign and mother tongue teaching It attempts to integrate theoretical and empirical work with the practical needs of institutions and of teachers without losing sight of learners needs for free personal choice combined with effective communication      The Transition From Prelinguistic To Linguistic Communication R. M. Golinkoff,2013-09-05 Published in the year 1983 The Transition From Prelinguistic To Linguistic Communication is a valuable contribution to the field of Developmental Psychology      Other Children, Other Languages Yonata Levy,2013-05-13 This volume investigates the implications of the study of populations other than educated middle class normal children and languages other than English on a universal theory of language acquisition Because the authors represent different theoretical orientations their contributions permit the reader to appreciate the full spectrum of language acquisition research Emphasis is placed on the principle ways in which data from pathology and from a variety of languages may affect universal statements The contributors confront some of the major theoretical issues in acquisition

Speech Act Taxonomy as a Tool for Ethnographic Description Nira Reiss,1985-01-01 This study is intended to design measures for ethnographic description including speech acts in an etic instrumental approach oriented toward an analysis of the functions of communicative events in relation to the ongoing stream of behavior A revised taxonomy of speech acts is applied to an empirical corpus and is shown to produce a systematic set of behavioral measures which are potentially productive for cross cultural comparison

Linguistic Anthropology Alessandro Duranti,2009-05-04 Linguistic Anthropology A Reader is a comprehensive collection of the best work that has been published in this exciting and growing area of anthropology and is organized to provide a guide to key issues in the study of language as a cultural resource and speaking as a cultural practice Revised and updated this second edition contains eight new articles on key subjects including speech communities the power and performance of language and narratives Selections are both historically oriented and thematically coherent and are accessibly grouped according to four major themes speech community and communicative competence the performance of language language socialization and literacy practices and the power of language An extensive introduction provides an original perspective on the development of the field and highlights its most compelling issues Each section includes a brief introductory statement sets of guiding questions and list of recommended readings on the main topics

Children's Early Understanding of Mind Charlie Lewis,Peter Mitchell,2014-03-18 A major feature of human intelligence is that it allows us to contemplate mental life Such an understanding is vital in enabling us to function effectively in social groups This book examines the origins of this aspect of human intelligence The five sections attempt firstly to place human development within an evolutionary context focusing on the possibility of innate components of understanding The second aim of the book is to examine the roles of early perception pretence and communication as precursor skills in the development of a grasp of mental states Thirdly attention is given to the possibility that children know a good deal more about the mind than is apparent from many studies designed to probe their abilities Taken together the chapters in this book mark a new focus within a theory of mind movement examining a group of skills in infancy and early childhood which culminate towards the end of the preschool period in a more mature understanding of one s and others mental states Drawing together researchers from diverse theoretical positions the aim is to work towards a coherent and unified account of this fundamental human ability This book will be of central relevance to psychologists and those in related disciplines particularly education and philosophy

Historico-genetic Theory of Culture Günter Dux,2014-03-15 The book focuses on the modern understanding of human life forms as constructs that followed an evolutionary history The author thus finds science confronted with two questions firstly how the transgression of the virtual threshold between natural and cultural history was possible secondly how the socio cultural constructs were able to develop in the course of history the way they did The discussion concentrates on the problem of determining a processual logic in the development of societal structures as well as in the development of cognition The focus of attention is the historico genetic reconstruction of cognition The book was originally published in German as Historisch genetische Theorie der Kultur Weilerswist 2000 Velbr

ck Cognitive Foundations of Linguistic Usage Patterns Hans-Jörg Schmid,Susanne Handl,2010 Main description

There is an increasing awareness in linguistics that linguistic patterns can be explained with recourse to general cognitive processes The contributions collected in this volume pursue such a usage based cognitive linguistic approach by presenting empirical investigations of lexical and grammatical patterns and probing into their implications for the relations between language structure use and cognition Vision and the Emergence of Meaning Anne Dunlea,1989-12-07 The relationship between language and other aspects of conceptual development is one of the central issues in child language acquisition One view holds that language is a special capacity separate from other areas of cognition and learning Precursors of Early

Speech Bjorn Lindblom,Rolf Zetterstrom,1986-06-18

Social Interaction and the Development of Language and Cognition Alison Garton,1995 For students of developmental psychology this book should be a useful reference guide to the main concepts concerned with motherese scaffolding socio cognitive learning and joint problem solving It is also a contribution to the debate on the influence of social behaviour on development Approaches to Bootstrapping Jürgen Weissenborn,Barbara Höhle,2001 Volume 1 of Approaches to Bootstrapping focuses on early word learning and syntactic development with special emphasis on the bootstrapping mechanisms by which the child using properties of the speech input enters the native linguistic system Topics discussed in the area of lexical acquisition are cues and mechanisms for isolating words in the input special features of motherese and their role for early word learning the determination of first word meanings memory and related processing capacities in early word learning and understanding and lexical representation and lexical access in early language production The papers on syntactic development deal with the acquisition of grammatical prosodic features for learning language specific syntactic regularities Volume 2 of Approaches to Bootstrapping focuses on the interaction between the development of prosodic and morphosyntactic knowledge as evidenced in the early speech of Dutch English German Portugese Spanish Danish Islandic and Swedish children shedding new light on the relation between universal and language specific aspects of language acquisition Another section of this volume deals with new approaches to language acquisition using ERP techniques The papers discuss in detail the relation between the development of language skills and changes in neurophysiological aspects of the brain The potentials of these techniques for the development of new tools for an early diagnosis of children who are at risque for developmental language disorders are also pointed out The closing section contains a synopsis of interactionist approaches to language acquisition a discussion of the genetic and experiential origin of primitive linguistic elements in acquisition and a discussion of structural and developmental aspects of bird song in comparison to human language The two volumes making up Approaches to Bootstrapping present a state of the art interdisciplinary and cross linguistic overview of recent developments in first language acquisition research      Gestures and Speech Pierre Feyereisen, Jacques-Dominique de Lannoy, 1991-08-30 This 1991 book surveys research on gestures carried out from various perspectives psycho and sociolinguistic ethological social cognitive and developmental psychological and neuropsychological      Gestural Communication in Nonhuman and Human Primates Katja Liebal, Cornelia Müller, Simone Pika, 2007 The aim of this volume is to bring together the research in gestural communication in both nonhuman and human primates and to explore the potential of a comparative approach and its contribution to the question of an evolutionary scenario in which gestures play a significant role      Distributed Language, Affective Dynamics, and the Human Ecology Volume I Paul J. Thibault, 2020-11-23 Language plays a central role in human life However the term language as defined in the language sciences of the 20th century and the traditions these have drawn on have arguably limited our thinking about what language is and does The two inter linked volumes of Thibault's study articulate crucially important aspects of an emerging new perspective shift on language the Distributed Language view that is now receiving more and more attention internationally Rejecting the classical view that the fundamental architecture of language can be localized as a number of inter related levels of formal linguistic organization that function as the coded inputs and outputs to each other the distributed language view argues that languaging behaviour is a bio cultural organisation of process that is embodied multimodal and integrated across multiple space time scales Thibault argues that we need to think of human languaging as the distinctively human mode of our becoming and being selves in the extended human ecology and the kinds of experiencing that this makes possible Paradoxically this also means thinking about language in non linguistic ways that break the grip of the conventional meta languages for thinking about human languaging Thibault's book grounds languaging in process theory languaging and the forms of experience it actualizes is always an event not a thing that we use In taking a distinctively interdisciplinary approach the book relates dialogical theories of human sense making to the distributed view of human cognition to recent thinking about distributed language to ecological psychology and to languaging as inter individual affective dynamics grounded in the subjective lives of selves In taking this approach the book considers the coordination of selves in social encounters the emergent forms of self reflexivity that characterise these encounters and the implications for how we think of and live our human sociality not as something that is mediated by overarching codes and systems but as emerging from the endogenous subjectivities of selves when they seek to coordinate with other selves and with the situations artefacts social institutions and technologies that populate the extended human ecology The two volumes aim to bring our understanding of human languaging closer to human embodiment experience and feeling while also showing how languaging enables humans to transcend local circumstances and thus to dialogue with cultural tradition Volume 1 focuses on the shorter timescales of bodily dynamics in languaging activity Volume II integrates the shorter timescales of body dynamics to the longer cultural historical timescales of the linguistic and cultural norms and patterns to which bodily dynamics are integrated      The Development of Word Meaning Stan Kuczaj, Martyn D. Barrett, 2012-12-06 For some time now the study of cognitive development has been far and away the most active discipline within developmental psychology. Although there would be much disagreement as to the exact proportion of papers published in developmental journals that could be considered cognitive, 50% seems like a conservative estimate. Hence a series of scholarly books devoted to work in cognitive development is especially appropriate at this time. The Springer Series in Cognitive Development contains two basic types of books: namely edited collections of original chapters by several authors and original volumes written by one author or a small group of authors. The flagship for the Springer Series is a serial publication of the advances types carrying the sub title Progress in Cognitive Development Research. Each volume in the Progress sequence is strongly thematic in that it is limited to some well defined domain of cognitive developmental research e.g. logical and mathematical development, development of learning. All Progress volumes will be edited collections. Editors of such collections upon consultation with the Series Editor may elect to have their books published either as contributions to the Progress sequence or as separate volumes. All books written by one author or a small group of authors are being published as separate volumes within the series. A fairly broad definition of cognitive development is being used in the selection of books for this series.      Origins A. C. Fabian, 1988-11-10 The first book in the Darwin College Lecture series reports on the origins of the most fundamental features of our world.
