The Fascination Of Publishing:

The British Publishing Industry in the Nineteenth Century David Finkelstein, Andrew Nash, 2024-03-14 This volume assembles documents that illustrate the changing structure of the British publishing industry in the nineteenth century It charts the increasing separation of the functions of printing publishing and retailing in the production and distribution of books and the emergence of new economic models of publishing For most of the period the book trade operated on a shortage of capital depending upon fragile networks of credit and debt which could lead as in the financial crisis of 1825 6 to the collapse of many businesses The volume documents how the structures of the industry impacted upon the pricing structure of books and periodicals and charts the slow emergence of a mass market for print Major points of contention such as the taxes on knowledge and the battle over legal deposit are traced along with recurring debates over discounting and underselling The volume focuses on key moments such as the controversy over free trade in the 1840s and 1850s and the debates over price protection which led to the formation of the Net Book Agreement in 1900

Publishing Women's Life Stories in France, 1647-1720 Elizabeth C. Goldsmith, 2017-03-02 In this new study Elizabeth Goldsmith continues her pursuit of issues treated in her earlier books on conversation epistolary writing and the female voice in literature She examines how

French women in the seventeenth and early eighteenth centuries first came to publish their private life stories in doing so she explores what the writers have to say about why they decide to write about themselves what they choose to write how they get their stories circulated and printed and what they do to defend themselves against the threat to personal reputation and credibility that was implied by such public self exposure Goldsmith scrutinizes the autobiographical writing of six women all of whom were for different reasons the objects of fairly intense publicity during their lifetime at the historical moment when the idea of publicity via the printed word was still a new concept Three of the women Jeanne des Anges Marie de l'Incarnation and Jeanne Guyon were charismatic religious figures whose writings were widely circulated The other three writers the sisters Hortense and Marie Mancini and Madame de Villedieu are more worldly but like their spiritual counterparts they undertook self publication as a form of conversation with the world and a way of participating in other forms of public discourse Publishing Women's Life Stories in France 1647-1720 considers the different forms that the life writing of these three women took autobiographies letter correspondences which in four of the six cases have never before been published trial transcripts testimonials published as part of other authors works and written self portraits that were circulated among friends Drawing on the work of Michel de Certeau on voice and communities of readers in the 17th century as well as the work of Roger Chartier and other historians of the book and print culture Goldsmith retraces the complicated networks of human interaction that underlie these early a
