Native North American Armor, Shields, and Fortifications David E. Jones, 2010-01-01 The first systematic comparative study of the defensive armor and fortifications of aboriginal Native Americans From the Chickasaw fighting the Choctaw in the Southeast to the Sioux battling the Cheyenne on the Great Plains warfare was endemic among the North American Indians when Europeans first arrived on this continent An impressive array of offensive weaponry and battle tactics gave rise to an equally impressive range of defensive technology Native Americans constructed very effective armor and shields using wood bone and leather Their fortifications ranged from simple refuges to walled and moated stockades to multiple stockades linked in strategic defensive networks In this book David E Jones offers the first systematic comparative study of the defensive armor and fortifications of aboriginal Native Americans Drawing data from ethnohistorical accounts and archaeological evidence he surveys the use of armor shields and fortifications both before European contact and during the historic period by American Indians from the Southeast to the Northwest Coast from the Northeast Woodlands to the desert Southwest and from the Sub Arctic to the Great Plains Jones also demonstrates the sociocultural factors that affected warfare and shaped the development of different types of armor and fortifications Extensive eyewitness descriptions of warfare armor and fortifications as well as photos and sketches of Indian armor from museum collections add a visual dimension to the text This succinct book is well written and systematically organized and it will serve as the starting point for any future studies on the subject Military History of the West This book provides the first and only comprehensive survey of armor shields and fortifications of American Indians It has left me with a new appreciation for the sheer diversity of warfare armor and fortifications used by Native Americans and it shatters stereotypes about the nature of aboriginal warfare Wayne Van Horne associate professor of Anthropology Kennesaw State University

Mountain Arapesh Margaret Mead, 2018-10-24 For approximately eight months during 1931 1932 anthropologist Margaret Mead lived with and studied the Mountain Arapesh a segment of the population of the East Sepik Province Papua New Guinea She found a culture based on simplicity sensitivity and cooperation In contrast to the aggressive Arapesh who lived on the plains both the men and the women of the mountain settlements were found to be in Mead's word maternal The Mountain Arapesh exhibited qualities that many might consider feminine they were in general passive affectionate and peaceloving Though Mead partially explains the male s femininity as being due to the type of nourishment available to the Arapesh she maintains social conditioning to be a factor in the type of lifestyle led by both sexes Mead s study encapsulates all aspects of the Arapesh culture She discusses betrothal and marriage customs sexuality gender roles diet religion arts agriculture and rites of passage In possibly a portent for the breakdown of traditional roles and beliefs in the latter part of the twentieth century Mead discusses the purpose of rites of passage in maintaining societal values and social control Mead also discovered that both male and female parents took an active role in raising their children Furthermore it was found that there were few conflicts over property the Arapesh having no concept of land ownership maintained a peaceful existence with each other In his new introduction to The Mountain Arapesh Paul B Roscoe assesses the importance of Mead s work in light of modern anthropological and ethnographic research as well as how it fits into her own canon of writings Roscoe discusses findings he culled from a trip to Papua New Guinea in 1991 to clarify some ambiguities in Mead s work His travels also served to help reconstruct what had happened to the Arapesh since Mead s historic visit in the early 1930s
