

Rivers for the Future

Here at American Rivers, we are driven to make more and more rivers sources of health, prosperity, and joy — for everyone, no matter who you are or where you live. This is what our vision of the future looks like and how we'll get there, together.

Restoring floodplains and wetlands will improve vital wildlife habitat and keep communities safer against flooding.

Protecting 1 million miles of rivers will ensure fish and wildlife can access healthy upstream habitat as their homes grow hotter and drier.

Protecting rivers and nature near where most people live will make our communities more resilient to drought and flooding, and allow people to access the outdoors.

Reversing the damage caused by hydropower dams will dramatically improve aquatic species survival.

Removing 30,000 harmful dams will reverse decline of migratory wildlife and fish, and help keep water sources cleaner.

Cleaning up pollution and ensuring communities have plentiful clean water will improve our cities and the well-being of people who live in them.

Making sure every river has a community of people speaking up for it will make it possible to create a future of abundant, clean water for all of us.

Advocating for laws that keep waters clean for drinking, fishing, and swimming ensures rivers can be a gateway to health and recreation.

Transforming urban rivers into healthy gathering spots for neighborhoods will inspire the next generation of community leaders, artists, and visionaries.

Janine Wilhelm,2016-04-28 India is facing a river pollution crisis today The origins of this crisis are commonly traced back to post Independence economic development and urbanisation This book in contrast shows that some important early roots of India s river pollution problem and in particular the pollution of the Ganges lie with British colonial policies on wastewater disposal during the late 19th and early 20th centuries Analysing the two cornerstones of colonial river pollution history during the late 19th and early 20th centuries the introduction of sewerage systems and the introduction of biological sewage treatment technologies in cities along the Ganges the author examines different controversies around the proposed and actual discharge of untreated treated sewage into the Ganges which involved officials on different administrative levels as well as the Indian public The analysis shows that the colonial state essentially ignored the problematic aspects of sewage disposal into rivers which were clearly evident from European experience Guided by colonial ideology and fiscal policy colonial officials supported the introduction of the cheapest available sewerage technologies which were technologies causing extensive pollution Thus policies on sewage disposal into the Ganges and other Indian rivers took on a definite shape around the turn of the 20th century and acquired certain enduring features that were to exert great negative influence on the future development of river pollution in India A well researched study on colonial river pollution history this book presents an innovative contribution to South Asian environmental history It is of interest to scholars working on colonial South Asian and environmental history and the colonial history of public health science and technology Bulletin of the Chicago Academy of Sciences Chicago Academy of Sciences,1989
