Jürgen Maasz, Wolfgang Schlöglmann, 2019-02-11 During the last fifteen years research on affect has been of considerable interest to the mathematics education community Researchers with an interest in mathematics and gender had a look at aspects of affect in their research studies right from the beginning Similarly many studies of mathematical problem solving had a growing interest in affect The main focus of research are now student beliefs and teacher beliefs which are identified as important factors for those influencing learning and teaching The thirteen chapters of this book involve many aspects of research on affect like theoretical problems of defining beliefs the complex relationship between content knowledge and affect espoused beliefs and teaching practice domain specific beliefs as well as the relationship between special learning conditions and affective reactions Mathematical Problem Solving Peter Liljedahl, Manuel Santos-Trigo, 2019-02-12 This book contributes to the field of mathematical problem solving by exploring current themes trends and research perspectives It does so by addressing five broad and related dimensions problem solving heuristics problem solving and technology inquiry and problem posing in mathematics education assessment of and through problem solving and the problem solving environment Mathematical problem solving has long been recognized as an important aspect of mathematics teaching mathematics and learning mathematics It has influenced mathematics curricula around the world with calls for the teaching of problem solving as well as the teaching of mathematics through problem solving And as such it has been of interest to mathematics education researchers for as long as the field has existed Research in this area has generally aimed at understanding and relating the processes involved in solving problems to students development of mathematical knowledge and problem solving skills The accumulated knowledge and field developments have included conceptual frameworks for characterizing learners success in problem solving activities cognitive metacognitive social and affective analysis curriculum proposals and ways to promote problem solving approaches

Detracking for Excellence and Equity Carol Corbett Burris, Delia T. Garrity, 2008-08-15 Ability grouping Leveling systems Streaming This is the modern way of talking about tracking the traditional practice of sorting and selecting students based on test scores and other criteria and then steering these groups into the most appropriate course of study In 1987 New York's suburban Rockville Centre School District faced the fact that its longstanding tracking system was resulting in unequal educational opportunities and allowing racial and socioeconomic stratification of its student population School leaders embarked on an ambitious program of reform reexamining beliefs about intelligence ability and instruction and offering all students the opportunity to study a rigorous curriculum in heterogeneous classrooms In this book authors Carol Corbett Burris and Delia T Garrity veterans of the Rockville Centre School District offer an experience based and research supported argument that detracking implemented with planning patience and persistence can do in every school district what it did in theirs raise achievement across the board and dramatically narrow the achievement gap Their main goal is a practical one to provide educational leaders with proven strategies for launching sustaining and monitoring a successful detracking reform Here you'll read Why detracking is necessary the benefits it brings and how to build support among teachers and parents How to revise curriculum to level up instruction How to establish a multiyear personalized professional development program to help teachers address new instructional needs How to best support effective teaching and learning in a heterogeneous classroom Detracking for Excellence and Equity outlines a comprehensive approach built on self reflection direct action vigilant supervision and a set of very clear beliefs that schools and opportunity matter that acceleration and enrichment will improve all students achievement and that all students deserve access to the best curriculum

Teacher Learning and Leadership Ann Lieberman, Carol Campbell, Anna Yashkina, 2016-08-25 Teacher Learning and Leadership asserts that teachers should be put at the center of creating developing organizing implementing and sharing their own ideas for school change rather than being passive recipients of knowledge from the outside It argues that there is tremendous potential for the good of students and the professionalization of teaching when teachers work collaboratively to develop their own and their colleagues professional knowledge and practices and are supported by school and system leaders unions and government The book draws on the groundbreaking work of the Teacher Learning and Leadership Program in Ontario and uses an in depth case study to illustrate its points It demonstrates how professional development built around collaboration teacher leadership curriculum development technology and pedagogy can be organized in a way that redistributes control and responsibility to teachers thereby instilling a genuine sense of pride and accomplishment in their work This book is a sincere outreach from the authors who advocate for the professional development of by and for teachers as individuals and importantly as a collective profession The authors argue that projects like the TLLP a joint initiative between the Ontario Ministry of Education and the Ontario Teachers Federation can radically and positively transform teachers knowledge skills and practices The book provides an important model for school change led by teachers rather than experts in partnership with school and system leaders and is a fascinating read for all those concerned with teaching teacher development and educational change Resources in Education ,1990 Proceedings Society for the Promotion of Engineering Education (U.S.),1927 The Journal of Engineering Education ,1926 Proceedings American Society for Engineering Education,Society for the Promotion of Engineering Education (U.S.),1927
