Sudden Death Of Athletes:

Sport-related sudden cardiac death Pietro Delise, Paolo Zeppilli, 2021-10-21 Sudden death in athletes is a global problem. Although it is a relatively rare phenomenon 1 100 000 persons when it does occur it is often as an incomprehensible event. In fact it strikes subjects who presumably should be much healthier than the general population. In the previous 20 years many authors have studied this problem in an attempt to understand the causes and prevent these events and it has been determined that in the vast majority of cases athletes who die suddenly have an underlying heart disease: arrhythmogenic cardiomyopathy, hypertrophic cardiomyopathy, coronary anomalies, channelopathies, etc. In most cases these diseases do not produce major symptoms and do not preclude sports activity even at the highest levels, although they do increase the incidence of sudden death. How to discover these diseases in asymptomatic athletes is a hotly debated issue. In particular there is controversy as to whether all athletes should undergo detailed medical screening including electrocardiogram or whether the costs of this screening are too high in relation to the event incidence. The purpose of this book is to accurately analyze the causes of sudden death in athletes and to provide cardiologists and sports physicians with useful tips on how to identify at risk individuals. Sudden Death of Athletes Ernst Jokl, 1985 Arrhythmias and Sudden Death in

Athletes Antonio Bayés de Luna, F. Furlanello, B.J. Maron, Douglas P. Zipes, 2013-06-29 Cardiovascular diseases are the most important causes of death in the world today. In adults the most frequent heart disease is acute myocardial infarction which can lead to sudden death. To prevent these diseases we need to fight against their main risk factors which include smoking, lipid disorders, hypertension, diabetes and a sedentary life style among others. It has been demonstrated that physical exercise or sports at any age provide notable benefits and can help to decrease other risk factors and reduce the incidence of cardiovascular diseases. Exercise can be simply walking or cycling. Aerobic exercise contributes to weight loss and also helps to control blood pressure, cholesterol and diabetes. It therefore plays an important role in prevention of heart diseases. Sports for young people are of great value and advisable not only because they contribute to physical fitness but also because they help in psychological well being. Young people should be encouraged to include general exercise and particularly sports into their daily activities. The following points however should be kept in mind: 1. Although winning at a sport is important this is only so if it is achieved in natural physical conditions and with the correct training. Therefore it is advisable to keep well away from any type of activity which artificially increases physical performance that is drug taking. Preventing Sudden Death in
