Brent Davies,Mark Brundrett,2010-07-20 Research has shown that school leadership is second only to classroom teaching in its effect on pupil learning As the demands on management teams become ever more complex this volume offers a fresh and expansive view on the challenges to be met in developing a leadership career With contributions from some of the most accomplished commentators on school leadership and management from around the world this book moves away from the simple how to of becoming a principal focusing instead on the wider issues of becoming a successful leader The central aim has been to assemble powerful statements from international authorities that encapsulate leading edge thinking on a group of interconnected themes based on the notion of developing successful leadership in and beyond schools. In so doing the text examines strategies for existing leaders developing their full capacity as well as enhancing the skills of those new to or aspiring to a leadership role. The chapters contributed by a carefully selected group of leading educationalists present insights on a number of central themes including developing new skill sets in leadership, the ethical and moral dimensions of leading an organisation, Leadership for instructional and pedagogical success, developing leadership capacity and capability through strategic activity. Rather than taking a technical approach of how to undertake the managerial or administrative tasks, the authors seek instead to develop critical leadership perspectives and skills with chapters on vitally important topics such as strategies for maximizing the potential of the leadership team as a whole. They draw not only upon the literature in the field of educational leadership but also a wider literature in the field of business and management. This diversity of perspective ensures this book's appeal to a broad international readership.

Innovative Trends in Teacher Education for the 21st Century Dr. S. Bella Wiselet and L. Vinila, 2019-04-14 Education seeks to provide the intellectual enlightenment and the spiritual emancipation in the search for a better existence for all life on earth. Teacher education must target skills for the 21st Century and beyond them to address the needs of a knowledge society. These days teacher's education system is facing problem of inaptness and irrelevance. There is a visible gap between how students live and how they learn. Schools and colleges have struggled to keep the pace with the rate of change in students' lives inside and outside the educational institution. Innovative educational practices support the development of new capabilities and surfacing stumbling blocks on the road to innovation implementation. The implementation of learning that promotes the development of general capabilities and deep learning approaches in students is at the centre of the paradigmatic changes.

Information and Communication Technology and the Teacher of the Future Carolyn Dowling, Kwok-Wing Lai, 2012-12-06 Carolyn Dowling Australian Catholic University Kwok Wing Lai University of Otago This book is one of the outcomes of a Working Conference on the topic of ICT and the Teacher of the Future which took place in Melbourne Australia in January 2003. The conference was held under the auspices of the International Federation for Information Processing (IFIP) Technical Committee 3 TC3 of IFIP through the activities of its seven Working Groups. It focuses on different aspects of the impact of Information and Communication Technologies on Education. The conference that was the impetus for this publication was organised jointly by Working Group 3.1 Secondary Education and Working Group 3.3 Research. In addition to the text of the papers delivered by the three keynote speakers, the book comprises a selection of the papers presented by delegates at the conference along with reports of the discussions of Focus Groups working in each topic area. All of the papers presented at the conference were reviewed by members of the International Programme Committee and the National Organising Committee. Those selected for publication as chapters in this book have subsequently undergone an additional process of collaborative editing before qualifying for inclusion It is our belief that these papers collectively present a very comprehensive overview of the concerns and developments in the use of Information and Communication Technologies that are currently of relevance to educators and educational policy makers across the globe
