Beckett and the Cognitive Method Marco Bernini, 2021 How can literature enhance parallel or reassess the scientific study of the mind Or is literature instead limited to the ancillary role of representing cognitive processes Beckett and the Cognitive Method argues that Beckett's narrative work rather than just expressing or rendering cognition and mental states inaugurates an exploratory use of narrative as an introspective modeling technology defined as introspection by simulation Through a detailed analysis of Beckett's entire corpus and published volumes of letters the book argues that Beckett pioneered a new method of writing to construct in a mode analogous to scientific inquiry models for the exploration of core laws processes and dynamics in the human mind Marco Bernini integrates models problems and interpretive frameworks from contemporary narrative theory cognitive sciences phenomenology and philosophy of mind to make a case for Beckett's modeling practice of a vast array of processes including the narrative illusion of a sense of self the hallucinatory quality of inner speech the dialogic interaction with memories and felt presences the synesthetic nature of inner experience and mental imagery the developmental cooperation of language and locomotion the role of moods and emotions as cognitive drives the layered complexity of the mind and the emergent quality of consciousness Beckett and the Cognitive Method also reflects on how Beckett's fictional cognitive models are transformed into reading auditory or spectatorial experiences generating through narrative devices insights on which the sciences can only discursively or descriptively report As such the study advocates for their relevance to the contemporary scientific debate towards an interdisciplinary co modeling of cognition
