Stocking, 1992 George Stocking has been widely recognized as the premier historian of anthropology ever since the publication of his first volume of essays Race Culture and Evolution in 1968 As editor of several publications including the highly acclaimed History of Anthropology series he has led the movement to establish the history of anthropology as a recognized research specialization In addition to the study Victorian Anthropology his work includes numerous essays covering a wide range of anthropological topics The eight essays collected in The Ethnographer's Magic consider the emergence of anthropology since the late nineteenth century as an academic discipline grounded in systematic fieldwork Drawing extensively on unpublished manuscript materials the essays focus primarily on Franz Boas and Bronislaw Malinowski the leading figures in the American and the British academic fieldwork traditions According to George Marcus of Rice University the essays represent the most informative and insightful writings on Malinowski and Boas and their legacies that are yet available Beyond their biographical material the essays here touch upon major themes in the history of anthropology its powerfully mythic aspect and persistent strain of romantic primitivism the contradictions of its relationship to the larger sociopolitical sphere its problematic integration of a variety of natural scientific and humanistic inquiries and the tension between its scientific aspirations and its subjectively acquired data To provide an overview against which to read the other essays Stocking has also included a sketch of the history of anthropology from the ancient Greeks to the present For this collection Stocking has written prefatory commentaries for each of the essays as well as two more extended contextualizing pieces An introductory essay Retrospective Prescriptive Reflections places the volume in autobiographical and historiographical context the Afterword Postscriptive Prospective Reflections reconsiders major themes of the essays in relation to the recent past and present situation of academic anthropology

Randolph Bourne and the Politics of Cultural Radicalism Leslie J. Vaughan, 2021-10-08 In the little rebellion that swept New York's Greenwich Village before World War I few figures stood out more than Randolph Bourne Hunchbacked and caped the little sparrowlike man of Dos Passos U S A Bourne was an essayist and critic most remembered today for his opposition to U S military involvement in Europe and his assertion that war is the health of the state A frequent contributor to The New Republic he died in 1918 at the age of 32 arguing that a military industrial complex would continue to shape the policies of the modern liberal state Bourne is also recognized as one of the founders of American cultural radicalism revered in turn by Marxists anti fascists and the New Left Through his writings he debated issues that were cultural as well as political from a position he described as below the battle rejecting the either or political options of his day in favor of a viewpoint that argued outside the terms set by the establishment In her new study of Bourne's political thought Leslie Vaughan maintains that this position was not as others have contended a retreat from politics but rather a different form of political engagement freed from the suppositions that impede genuine debate and democratic change Her analysis challenges previous readings of Bourne's politics showing that he offered non statist neighborhood based politics in America's modern cities as a practical alternative to involvement in the national state and its militarism By demonstrating Bourne's emphasis on politics as local multi ethnic and intergenerational Vaughan shows that his thought offered a new political discourse and set of cultural possibilities for American society in an era he was the first to label as post modern Returning to the influence of Nietzsche on his thought she also explores the role Bourne played in the creation of his own myth Eighty years later Bourne can be seen to stand at the cusp of the modern and the post modern worlds as he speaks to today's multiculturalist movement In reexamining Bourne's writings Vaughan has located the roots of twentieth century radical thought while repositioning Bourne at the center of debates about the nature and limits of American liberalism Ernest Hemingway James Nagel,1996-07-30 The first extensive study of Hemingway s relationship to his hometown Oak Park Illinois and the influence its people places and underlying values had on his early work Fresh and insightful essays provide extended and focused discussion of issues central to Hemingway s literary identity Susan Beegel The Hemingway Review America, History and Life ,1989 Article abstracts and citations of reviews and dissertations covering the United States and Canada Faking Literature K. K. Ruthven,2001-04-30 Faking Literature first published in 2001 examines the role of forgery in literature The New Era Paul V. Murphy,2011-12-22 In the 1920s Americans talked of their times as modern which is to say fundamentally different in pace and texture from what went before a new era With the end of World War I an array of dizzying inventions and trends pushed American society from the Victorian era into modernity The New Era provides a history of American thought and culture in the 1920s through the eyes of American intellectuals determined to move beyond an older role as gatekeepers of cultural respectability and become tribunes of openness experimentation and tolerance instead Recognizing the gap between themselves and the mainstream public younger critics alternated between expressions of disgust at American conformity and optimistic pronouncements of cultural reconstruction The book tracks the emergence of a new generation of intellectuals who made culture the essential terrain of social and political action and who framed a new set of arguments and debates over women s roles sex mass culture the national character ethnic identity race democracy religion and values that would define American public life for fifty years
