The American High School Today:

The American High School Today James Bryant Conant, 1959
Conant, 1960 The American High School Today James Bryant Conant, 1960 The Failed Promise of the American High School, 1890-1995 David L. Angus, Jeffrey Mirel, 1999 This provocative new study of the American high school examines the historical debates about curriculum policy and also traces changes in the institution itself as evidenced by what students actually studied Contrary to conventional accounts the authors argue that beginning in the 1930s American high schools shifted from institutions primarily concerned with academic and vocational education to institutions mainly focused on custodial care of adolescents Claiming that these changes reflected educators racial class and gender biases the authors offer original suggestions for policy adjustments that may lead to greater educational equality for our ever growing and ever more diverse population of students The New American High School Ted Sizer, 2013-05-22 The late Theodore Sizer's vision for a truly democratic public high school system Our current high schools are ill designed and inefficient We have inherited a program of studies that in its overall structure has not changed in over a century The question is What's next Theodore Sizer the founder of The Coalition of Essential Schools was a passionate advocate for the American school system In this his last book he offers a vision of what a future secondary education might look like In a book that tells the story of his own odyssey Sizer gives shape to a much needed agenda for improving our high schools Includes a vision for the future of our High Schools from one of America's greatest leaders of educational reform Written by Theodore Sizer founder of The Coalition of Essential Schools and author of landmark book Horace's Compromise This final book from the late Theodore Sizer reveals the man and his vision for our secondary education system The American High School National Center for Education Statistics, 1980 The New American High School David D. Marsh, Judy B. Coddling, 1999 A credible plan for transforming secondary education by educators already involved in pioneering the change Ron Brandt Writer and Consultant Former Executive Editor ASCD Finally a clear and practical approach for implementing genuine school improvement based on high standards Marsh and Coddling have gone beyond the rhetoric of many high school reform leaders and have addressed the needs of parents and practitioners alike Their collection of essays represents a powerful and pragmatic blueprint for a new American high school Bravo Robert A Mackin Finalist National Principal of the Year NASSP and Principal Souhegan High School Amherst New Hampshire This book begins by focusing on where American high schools are now based on a picture of a real high performing school Authors share their perspectives on how high schools are lagging in preparing students for life after school In subsequent chapters Marsh Coddling and Associates paint a powerful picture of what high schools could be like They discuss examples of reform efforts that look at classrooms students and outcomes in new ways The authors offer these proposed changes to American high schools Student performance assessments that capture conceptual understanding problem solving and communication Curriculum based on student outcomes constructivist knowledge and school to career applications Learning activities that challenge students to think solve problems and collaborate School cultures based on enhanced learning meaningful staff student interactions and ongoing professional development If you re interested in new directions for your high school and you want to know how to get there you need to read this guide The American Secondary School Leslie Owen Taylor,1960 The American High School Today ,1952 The Origins of the American High School William J. Reese,1999-01-01 An analysis of the social changes and political debates that shaped 19th century American high schools It reveals what students studied and how they behaved what teachers expected of them and how they taught and how boys and girls whites and blacks experienced high school
