The English Novel In Transition

The English Novel in Transition, 1885-1940 William Coleman Frierson, 1942 From the Traditional to the Modern, 1963 The English Novel in Transition, 1855-1940 William Coleman Frierson, 1965 The English Novel in Transition, 1885-1940, 1940 The Haunted Study P. J. Keating, 2012-10-04

The Haunted Study a rare example of a work of literary history that is genuinely interdisciplinary explores how the leading novelists of the late Victorian and Edwardian periods came to develop so many of the attitudes that are now generally accepted as characteristically modern The writing of fiction is not treated as though it exists in some kind of isolation but is shown to be intimately related to other forms of social activity Conrad James Meredith and their immediate modernist successors Joyce Lawrence and Woolf may now seem to be set apart in a variety of crucial ways from say Ouida and Marie Corelli or even Gissing Wells and Bennett but all of them worked within the same rapidly changing society and were unavoidably influenced by its dominant economic political and cultural concerns These influences were not peripheral but central and formative They profoundly affected the creation of a commercially fragmented culture as well as the nature of fiction within that culture The Haunted Study covers an exceptionally large number of authors from the critically despised to the critically admired and examines the impact on their work of such factors as the professionalisation of literature the earning power of authors the emergence of new kinds of readers and disturbingly present throughout the whole period fundamental democratic change The English Novel Walter Raleigh, 1894 Genre in English Literature, 1650-1700: Transitions in Drama and Fiction Pilar Cuder-Dominguez, 2014-09-26

This book examines the theories and practices of narrative and drama in England between 1650 and 1700 a period that in bridging the Renaissance and the Enlightenment has been comparatively neglected and on which at the time of writing there is a dearth of new approaches Critical consensus over these two genres has failed to account for its main features and evolution throughout the period in at least two ways First most approaches omit the manifold contradictions between the practice and the theory of a genre Writers were generally aware of working within a tradition of representation which they nevertheless often challenged even while the theory was being drafted e g by John Dryden The ideal and the real were in unacknowledged conflict Second critical readings of these late Stuart texts have fitted them proactively into a neat evolutionary pattern that reached eighteenth century genres without detours or disjunctions or else they have oversimplified the wealth of generic conventions deployed in the period so that to the present day reader for instance Restoration drama consists only of either city comedies or Dryden's tragedies A cursory survey of the critical history of seventeenth century drama and fiction confirms these views Although the 1970s and 1980s brought about a crop of interesting reassessments of the field fiction continues to be seen as a genre that emerged in the eighteenth century Most critics still treat earlier manifestations as marginal or as prenovelistic experiments and in most instances it is even possible to discern a sexist bias to justify this treatment as these works were written by women unlike much of the canonical fiction of the eighteenth century A revision of the critical foundations hitherto held and a re evaluation of the works of fiction written in the seventeenth century is therefore in order This study adopts as a basic and essential methodological tenet the need to decenter the analysis of Restoration fiction and drama from the traditional canon too limited and conservative and featuring works that are not always suitable as paradigmatic instances of the literary production of the period These studies have thus been based on a larger than usual if not on a full corpus of works produced within the period and have sought to ascertain the role played in the development of each of the genres under consideration by works topics or even by authors hitherto somewhat outside mainstream literary criticism This opens the field of English literature further through the framing of new questions or revising of old ones as well as to beginning a dialogue yet again as to the meanings of these literary works and also to their circulation from their inception up to the present time In addition the rare attention given to works by women makes this all the more an important book for collections in English literature of the period

Elizabeth Singer Rowe and the Development of the English Novel Paula R. Backscheider, 2013-03-29 Elizabeth Singer Rowe played a pivotal role in the development of the novel during the eighteenth century Winner of the CHOICE Outstanding Academic Title of the Choice

ACRL Elizabeth Singer Rowe and the Development of the English Novel is the first in depth study of Rowe s prose fiction A four volume collection of her work was a bestseller for a hundred years after its publication but today Rowe is a largely unrecognized figure in the history of the novel Although her poetry was appreciated by poets such as Alexander Pope for its metrical craftsmanship beauty and imagery by the time of her death in 1737 she was better known for her fiction According to Paula R Backscheider Rowe s major focus in her novels was on creating characters who were seeking a harmonious contented life often in the face of considerable social pressure This quest would become the plotline in a large number of works in the second half of the eighteenth century and it continues to be a major theme today in novels by women Backscheider relates Rowe s work to popular fiction written by earlier writers as well as by her contemporaries Rowe had a lasting influence on major movements including the politeness or gentility movement the reading revolution and the Bluestocking society The author reveals new information about each of these movements and Elizabeth Singer Rowe emerges as an important innovator Her influence resulted in new types of novel writing philosophies and lifestyles for women Backscheider looks to archival materials literary analysis biographical evidence and a configuration of cultural and feminist theories to prove her groundbreaking argument

Singer, 2015-03-22 This book examines the connections evident between the simultaneous emergence of British modernism and middlebrow literary culture from 1880 to the 1930s The essays illustrate the mutual influences of modernist and middlebrow authors critics publishers and magazines

The Oxford History of the Novel in English Cyrus R. K. Patell, Deborah Lindsay Williams, 2024-03-05 The Oxford History of the Novel in English is a twelve volume series presenting a comprehensive global and up to date history of English language prose fiction written by a large international team of scholars The series is concerned with novels as a whole not just the literary novel and each volume includes chapters on the processes of production distribution and reception and on popular fiction and the fictional sub genres as well as outlining the work of major novelists movements and tendencies This book offers an account of US fiction during a period demarcated by two traumatic moments the eve of the entry of the United States into the Second World War and the onset of the Covid 19 pandemic The aftermath of the Second World War was arguably the high point of US nationalism but in the years that followed US writers would increasingly explore the possibility that US democracy was a failure both at home and abroad For so many of the writers whose work this volume explores the idea of nation became suspect as did the idea of national literature as the foundation for US writing Looking at post 1940s writing the literary historian might well chart a movement within literary cultures away from nationalism and toward what we would call cosmopolitanism a perspective that fosters conversations between the occupants of different cultural spaces and that regards difference as an opportunity to be embraced rather than a problem to be solved During this period the novel has had significant competition for the US public s attention from other forms of narrative and media film television comic books videogames and the internet and the various forms of social media that it spawned. If however the novel becomes a residual form during this period it is by no means archaic. The novel has been reinvigorated over the past eighty years by its encounters with both emergent forms such as film, television, comic books and digital media and the emergent voices typically associated with multiculturalism in the United States.

The Transformation of the English Novel, 1890-1930 Daniel R. Schwarz, 1989-06-18. Focusing on the work of Hardy, Lawrence, Conrad, Joyce, Forster and Woolf, this study is divided into two sections: the first shows how historical and contextual material is essential for developing powerful readings; the second discusses how new theory has transformed the way we read and think.

The English Novel Alan Chester Valentine, 1927

Modernist Transitions Subhadeep Ray, Goutam Karmakar, 2023-12-30. This volume is a critical reader focusing on the continuities and discontinuities, confirmations and confrontations, crossovers and collisions, appropriations, adaptations and assimilations in the cultural transitions between British and Bangla vernacular modernist fiction within the context of the imperial modernity of the first half of the 20th century. The volume, consisting of critical essays, aspires to illuminate from multiple but intersecting perspectives those thematic and structural areas where these two kinds of literary modernism, each aesthetically diverse, historically segmented by onslaughts of wars and other outbreaks of suffering and violence, and ideologically convoluted but conditioned in many ways by common socio-historical catastrophes and promises, interact with each other to constitute an aesthetics of motion and dissonance. Essays cut across literary criticism to employ interdisciplinary approaches as they blur the boundaries between histories, biographies and fictional narratives; between individual ethics in and outside the fictional world; between imagined and living communities; between real and generic politics; between the home and the world; and between the corporeal and the cultural. These essays interrogate the mastery in literary techniques, narrative motives and dualities, major and minor genres, de-formations of canons in respect of the worldliness formed by the textual incorporation of the intricate imperial relationships between the United Kingdom and Bangla.
