

The background of the cover is an abstract landscape painting. The sky is a deep, clear blue. Below it, there are rolling hills or dunes. The foreground and middle ground are composed of broad, sweeping brushstrokes in warm, earthy tones: deep reds, oranges, and yellows. The overall effect is one of vastness and spiritual openness.

Rudy, 2001 What CHOICE says Like many other titles in this Mellen series Rudy's volume defies definition as a straightforward piece of literary analysis Emerson had an understanding and appreciation of Buddhism and Rudy considers Emerson not as a literary essayist and poet but as a spiritual guide for contemporary readers He sees parallels between Emerson's implied lessons and his preferred state of consciousness with those of Zen Buddhism Rudy's book is not an examination of the influence of Eastern thought on Emerson Such a study was written as early as 1932 by Arthur Christy The Orient in American Transcendentalism Instead focusing on Emerson's major essays Rudy shows how Emerson's mind worked in similar ways to those of the Zen masters Both Emerson and the Zen masters did the spiritual work of emptying in striving to achieve what the Buddhists call nonattachment Rudy works to establish a dialog between the East and the West through Emerson and implies a validation of the meditative dynamics of voidist spirituality by finding connections between the two Like Richard Geldard's The Esoteric Emerson The Spiritual Teaching of Ralph Waldo Emerson 1993 Rudy's book updates Emerson for the contemporary seeker Upper division undergraduates through faculty Ralph Waldo Emerson, a Descriptive

Bibliography Joel Myerson,1982 Expanding the Boundaries of Transformative Learning E. O'Sullivan,A. Morrell,M. O'Connor,2016-04-30 Transformative learning involves experiencing a deep structural shift in the basic premises of thought feelings and actions It is a shift of consciousness that dramatically and permanently alters our way of being in the world Such a shift involves our understanding of ourselves and our self locations our relationships with other humans and with the natural world our understanding of relations of power in interlocking structures of class race and gender our body awarenesses our visions of alternative approaches to living and our sense of possibilities for social justice and peace and personal joy The editors of this collection make several challenges to the existing field of transformative learning the first is to theoreticians who have attempted to describe the nature of transformative learning without regard to the content of transformative learning The editors argue that transformative learning theory cannot be constructed in a content neutral or context free way Their second challenge which assumes the importance content for transformative learning is to educators as practitioners The editors argue that transformative learning requires new educational practices consistent with the content Arts based research and arts based teaching learning practices are one example of such new educational practices Education for the soul or spiritual practices such as meditation or modified martial arts or indigenous peoples forms of teaching learning is another example Each article in the collection presents a possible model of these new practices Hartmann's Who's who in Occult, Psychic and Spiritual Realms...in the United States and Foreign Countries ,1927
