Between Samaritans and States Jennifer Rubenstein, 2015-01-29 This book provides the first book length English language account of the political ethics of large scale Western based humanitarian INGOs such as Oxfam CARE and Doctors Without Borders These INGOs are often either celebrated as heroes or do good machines or maligned as incompetents on the road to hell In contrast this book suggests the picture is more complicated Drawing on political theory philosophy and ethics along with original fieldwork this book shows that while humanitarian INGOs are often perceived as non governmental and apolitical they are in fact sometimes somewhat governmental highly political and often second best actors As a result they face four central ethical predicaments the problem of spattered hands the quandary of the second best the cost effectiveness conundrum and the moral motivation trade off This book considers what it would look like for INGOs to navigate these predicaments in ways that are as consistent as possible with democratic egalitarian humanitarian and justice based norms It argues that humanitarian INGOs must regularly make deep moral compromises In choosing which compromises to make they should focus primarily on their overall consequences as opposed to their intentions or the intrinsic value of their activities But they should interpret consequences expansively and not limit themselves to those that are amenable to precise measurements of cost effectiveness The book concludes by explaining the implications of its map of humanitarian INGO political ethics for individual donors to INGOs and for how we all should conceive of INGOs role in addressing pressing global problems Developing Public Sector Leadership Petri Virtanen, Marika Tammela, 2020-03-11 This book presents tools techniques and best practices to develop public sector leadership Based on scholarly research as well as the authors professional experience as leadership trainers and consultants it offers guidance and practical know how for public sector managers civil servants and policymakers in public administration on how to create and develop leadership skills and practice By analyzing the particular nature of political processes and public policy decision making as well as the

The NGO Game Patrice C. McMahon, 2017-06-13 In most post conflict countries nongovernmental organizations are everywhere but their presence is misunderstood In The NGO Game Patrice McMahon investigates the unintended outcomes of what she calls the NGO boom in Bosnia and Kosovo Using her years of fieldwork and interviews McMahon argues that when international actors try to rebuild and reconstruct post conflict countries they often rely on and look to NGOs Although policymakers and scholars tend to accept and even celebrate NGO involvement in post conflict and transitioning countries they rarely examine why NGOs have become so popular what NGOs do or how they affect everyday life After a conflict international NGOs descend on a country local NGOs pop up everywhere and money and energy flow into strengthening the organizations In time the frenzy of activity slows the internationals go home local groups disappear from sight and the NGO boom goes bust Instead of peace and stability the embrace of NGOs and the enthusiasm for international peacebuilding turns to disappointment if not cynicism For many in the Balkans and other post conflict environments NGOs are not an aid to building a lasting peace but are part of the problem because of the turmoil they foster during their life cycles in a given country The NGO Game will be useful to practitioners and policymakers interested in improving peacebuilding the role of NGOs in peace and development and the sustainability of local initiatives in post conflict countries
