The Ambonese Curiosity Cabinet:

The Ambonese Curiosity Cabinet Georg Eberhard Rumpf, 1999 G E Rumphius also known as the Indian Pliny was one of the great tropical naturalists of the seventeenth century Born in Germany he spent most of his life in the employ of the Dutch East India Company stationed on the island of Ambon in eastern Indonesia He wrote two major works this one the first modern work on tropical fauna was published posthumously in Dutch in 1705 A classic text of natural history it is now available in English for the first time The descriptions in The Ambonese Curiosity Cabinet cover the gamut of organisms found in the seas surrounding Ambon crabs shrimp sea urchins mussels as well as minerals and rare concretions taken from animals and plants A series of exquisite etchings accompanies the descriptions The book has been masterfully translated and extensively annotated by E M Beekman whose introduction provides the first biography of Rumphius in English that incorporates new material The Dutch Trading Companies As Knowledge Networks Siegfried Huigen, Jan L. De Jong, Elmer Kolfin, 2010 For more than a century from about 1600 until the early eighteenth century the Dutch dominated world trade Via the Netherlands the far reaches of the world both in the Atlantic and in the East were connected Dutch ships carried goods but they also opened up opportunities for the exchange of knowledge The commercial networks of the Dutch trading companies provided an infrastructure which was accessible to people with a scholarly interest in the exotic world The present collection of essays brings together a number of studies about knowledge construction that depended on the Dutch trading networks Contributors include Paul Arblaster Hans den Besten Frans Blom Britt Dams Adrien Delmas Alette Fleischer Antje Flöchter Michiel van Groesen Henk de Groot Julie Berger Hochstrasser Grégoire Holtz Siegfried Huigen Elspeth Jajdelska Maria Theresia Leuker Edwin van Meerkerk Bruno Naarden and Christina Skott Wild Profusion Celia Lowe, 2013-10-31 Wild Profusion tells the fascinating story of biodiversity conservation in Indonesia in the decade culminating in the great fires of 1997-98 a time when the country's environment became a point of concern for social and environmental activists scientists and the many fishermen and farmers nationwide who suffered from degraded environments and faced accusations that they were destroying nature Celia Lowe argues that biodiversity in 1990s Indonesia implied a particular convergence of nature nation science and identity that made Indonesians mapping of the concept distinct within transnational practices of nature conservation at the time Lowe recounts the efforts of Indonesian biologists to document the species of the Togean Islands to develop Togean people and to turn this archipelago off the coast of Sulawesi into a national park Indonesian scientists aspired to a conservation biology that was both internationally recognizable and politically effective in the Indonesian context Simultaneously Lowe describes the experiences of Togeans Sama people who had their own understandings of nature and nation To place Sama and scientist into the same conceptual frame Lowe studies Sama ideas in the context of transnational thought rather than local knowledge In tracking the practice of conservation biology in a postcolonial setting Wild Profusion explores what in nature can count as important and for whom Hearsay Is Not

Excluded Michael R. Dove, 2024-02-27 This chronicle of natural history argues that the modern environmental crisis and rise in science skepticism codeveloped with the rise of ever narrower scientific disciplines For millennia the field of natural history promoted a knowledgeable and unifying view of the world In contrast the modern rise of narrow scientific disciplines has promoted a dichotomy between nature and culture on the one hand and between scientific and folk knowledge on the other Drawing on the fields of anthropology history and environmental science Michael R Dove argues that the loss of this historic holistic vision of the world is partly to blame for contemporary environmental degradation and science skepticism Dove bases this thesis on a study of four pioneering natural historians across four centuries Georg Eberhard Rumphius seventeenth century Carl Linnaeus eighteenth century Alfred Russel Wallace nineteenth century and Harold C Conklin twentieth century Dove studies their field craft and writing the political cultural and environmental circumstances in which they worked the sources of their insight and the implications of their work for modern society Most of all the book seeks to discover what enabled those natural historians to straddle boundaries that today seem impassable and to distill that wisdom for a modern world greatly in need of a holistic vision of people and environment A Dutch Republican Baroque

Frans-Willem Korsten, 2025-10-01 In the Dutch Republic in its Baroque forms of art two aesthetic formal modes theatre and drama were dynamically related to two political concepts event and moment The Dutch version of the Baroque is characterised by a fascination with this world regarded as one possibility out of a plurality of potential worlds It is this fascination that explains the coincidence in the Dutch Republic strange at first sight of Baroque exuberance irregularity paradox and vertigo with scientific rigor regularity mathematical logic and rational distance In giving a new historical perspective on the Baroque as a specifically Dutch republican one this study also offers a new and systematic approach towards the interactions among the notions of theatricality dramatisation moment and event concepts that are currently at the centre of philosophical and political debates but the modern articulation of which can best be considered in the explorations of history and world in the Dutch Republic Objects, Commodities and Material Cultures in the Dutch Republic

Judith Noorman, Feike Dietz, 2025-10-01 How did objects move between places and people and how did they reshape the Republic's arts cultures and sciences Objects were vitally significant for the early modern Dutch Republic which is known as an early consumer society a place famous for its exhaustive production of books visual arts and scientific instruments What happens when we push these objects and their materiality to the centre of our research How do they invite us to develop new perspectives on the early modern Dutch Republic And how do they contest the boundaries of the academic disciplines that have traditionally organized our scholarship In Objects Commodities and Material Cultures the interdisciplinary community of specialists around the Amsterdam Centre for the Study of Early Modernity innovatively explores the diverse early modern world of objects Its contributors take a single object or commodity as a point of departure to study and discuss various aspects of early modern art culture and history from natural objects to consumer goods from
