The English Traveller and the Movement of Ideas, 1660-1732 R. W. Frantz, 1968 The English Traveller and the Movements of Ideas, 1660-1732 Ray William Frantz, 1968 The English Traveller and the Movement of Ideas, 1660-1732 Ray William Frantz, 1968 Early Modern Tales of Orient Kenneth Parker, 2013-10-28 First published in 1999 Routledge is an imprint of Taylor Francis an informa company Movement and Belonging Carol E. Leon, 2009 The uncertainties and newness that surround us today prompt radical questions about ourselves and our relationship with the external world How do and can we belong to the places and spaces of today Movement and Belonging Lines Places and Spaces of Travel describes current realities and suggests ways in which you can define yourself in an ever changing world Using the travel writings of V S Naipaul Michael Ondaatje Patrick White and D H Lawrence Movement and Belonging demonstrates that authentic travel embracing changing boundaries and cultures enables you to create sites of belonging where you can find your sense of self European Vision and the South Pacific Third Edition Bernard Smith, 2022-10-05 Bernard Smith 1916 2011 was arguably Australia s greatest art historian and one of the most important humanist thinkers internationally on ideas concerning cultural contact His European Vision and the South Pacific first published in 1960 showed how the ideas of the Enlightenment and the empirical structuring of scientific and geographical knowledge during the great eighteenth century voyages of discovery affected notions of identity both for Europeans and the Indigenous peoples with whom they came in contact Not only did Smith s investigation of art science and imperialism of this period explore the conditions of frontier contact it opened up the dialogue on de colonisation and allowed us to think beyond or after it He was undoubtedly a pioneer of post colonialism and the book remains a lighthouse in pacific studies The republication of European Vision and the South Pacific is an essential part of the discourse reframing the interconnections and crossing of cultural boundaries between Europe and antipodean societies This new edition of a significant Australian classic also coincides with the 250th anniversary of Cook s landing on the east coast of Australia and complements new scholarship on territorialisation colonialism and the politics of exchange between metropolitan centres and peripheries A new introduction by Sheridan Palmer situates the book in a contemporary context Envisioning the Worst Linda Merians, 2001 Tracing all the pre colonial representations of Hottentots and Hottentotism operative in early modern England allows us to see the birth and the development of a prejudice that became central to the nation In their constructions of Hottentots the English found a way to vent their own fear anger and conflict about themselves and their society particularly as they were transforming and redefining their nation as imperial Great Britain The very invention of the Hottentots shows that the English needed to envision a worst people in order to imagine themselves as the world s most advanced people BOOK JACKET A List of American Doctoral Dissertations Printed in [1912-]1938 Library of Congress. several decades have seen the emergence of a remarkable phenomenon a Jewish rebirth that is occurring throughout Africa A variety of different ethnic groups proclaim that they are returning to long forgotten Jewish roots and African clans trace their lineage to the Lost Tribes of Israel Africans have encountered Jewish myths and traditions in multiple forms and various ways The context and circumstances of these encounters have gradually led within some African societies to the elaboration of a new Jewish identity connected with that of the Diaspora This book presents one by one the different groups of Black Jews in western central eastern and southern Africa and the ways in which they have used and imagined their oral history and traditional customs to construct a distinct Jewish identity It explores the ways in which Africans have interacted with the ancient mythological sub strata of both western and African ideas of Judaism It particularly seeks to identify and to assess colonial influences and their internalization by African societies in the shaping of new African religious identities The book also examines how in the absence of recorded African history the eminently malleable accounts of Jewish lineage developed by African groups co exist with the possible historical traces of a Jewish presence in Africa This elegant and well researched book goes beyond the well known case of the Falasha of Ethiopia examining the trend towards Judaism in Africa at large and exploring too the interdisciplinary concepts of metaphorical Diaspora global and transnational identities and colonization

The ^A Black Jews of Africa Edith Bruder, 2008-05-29 Imagining The Pacific Bernard Smith, 2018-06-01 In this book Bernard Smith explores in more depth the issued first dealt with in his classic European Vision and the South Pacific He continues his careful examination of how European artists and scientists travelling to the Pacific during the time of Cook s voyages were stimulated to see the world in new and creative ways In analysing intensely personal responses to a new accessible environment Bernard Smith shows how science topography and travel had an impact on current pictorial genres Among many surprising findings he argues that the obligation science placed on art to provide information was a factor in the triumph of Impressionism during the late nineteenth century With its breadth of vision and attention to detail its exploration of the complex relationship between the pursuit of knowledge and the exercise of power Imagining the Pacific takes its place alongside Bernard Smith s earlier work as a milestone in historical scholarship British Romanticism in European Perspective Steve Clark, Tristanne Connolly, 2015-09-08 What and when is British Romanticism if seen not in island isolation but cosmopolitan integration with European Romantic literature history and culture The essays here range from poetry and the novel to science writing philosophy visual art opera and melodrama from France and Germany to Italy and Bosnia American Indians in British Art, 1700-1840 Stephanie Pratt, 2013-02-11 Ask anyone the world over to identify a figure in buckskins with a feather bonnet and the answer will be Indian Many works of art produced by non Native artists have reflected such a limited viewpoint In American Indians in British Art 1700 1840 Stephanie Pratt explores for the first time an artistic tradition that avoided simplification and that instead portrayed Native peoples in a surprisingly complex light During the eighteenth century the British allied themselves with Indian tribes to counter the American colonial rebellion In response British artists produced a large volume of work focusing on American Indians Although these works depicted their subjects as either noble or ignoble savages they also represented Indians as active participants in contemporary society Pratt places artistic works in historical context and traces a movement away from abstraction where Indians were symbols rather than actual people to representational art which portrayed Indians as actors on the colonial stage But Pratt also argues that to view these images as mere illustrations of historical events or individuals would be reductive As works of art they contain formal characteristics and ideological content that diminish their documentary value Caught between Worlds Joe Snader,2021-10-21 The captivity narrative has always been a literary genre associated with America Joe Snader argues however that captivity narratives emerged much earlier in Britain coinciding with European colonial expansion the development of anthropology and the rise of liberal political thought Stories of Europeans held captive in the Middle East America Africa and Southeast Asia appeared in the British press from the late sixteenth through the late eighteenth centuries and captivity narratives were frequently featured during the early development of the novel Until the mid eighteenth century British examples of the genre outpaced their American cousins in length frequency of publication attention to anthropological detail and subjective complexity Using both new and canonical texts Snader shows that foreign captivity was a favorite topic in eighteenth century Britain An adaptable and expansive genre these narratives used set plots and stereotypes originating in Mediterranean power struggles and relocated in a variety of settings particularly eastern lands The narratives rhetorical strategies and cultural assumptions often grew out of centuries of religious strife and coincided with Europe s early modern military ascendancy Caught Between Worlds presents a broad rich and flexible definition of the captivity narrative placing the American strain in its proper place within the tradition as a whole Snader having assembled the first bibliography of British captivity narratives analyzes both factual texts and a large body of fictional works revealing the ways they helped define British identity and challenged Britons to rethink the place of their nation in the larger world A Reference Guide for English Studies Michael J.  Cathy N. Davidson Professor of English Duke University, 1987-02-19 Revolution and the Word offers a unique perspective on the origins of American fiction looking not only at the early novels themselves but at the people who produced them sold them and read them It shows how in the aftermath of the American Revolution the novel found a special place among the least privileged citizens of the new republic As Cathy N Davidson explains early American novels most of them now long forgotten were a primary means by which those who bought and read them especially women and the lower classes moved into the higher levels of literacy required by a democracy This very fact Davidson shows also made these people less amenable to the control of the gentry who naturally enough derided fiction as a potentially subversive genre Combining rigorous historical methods with the newest insights of literacy theory Davidson brilliantly reconstructs the complex interplay of politics ideology economics and other social forces that governed the way novels were written published distributed and understood Davidson also shows in almost tactile detail how many Americans lived during the Constitutional era She depicts the life of the traveling book peddler the harsh lot of the printer the shortcomings of early American schools the ambiguous politics of novelists like Brackenridge and Tyler and the lost lives of ordinary women like Tabitha Tenney and Patty Rogers Drawing on a vast body of material the novels themselves as well as reviews inscriptions in cherished books letters and diaries and many other records Davidson presents the genesis of American literature in its fullest possible context

Enlightenment in Ruins Michael Griffin, 2013-08-15 Oliver Goldsmith 1728 1774 moved between the genres and geographies of enlightenment writing with considerable dexterity As a consequence he has been characterized as a passive purveyor of enlightenment thought a hack a harried translator of the French enlightenment for an English audience an ideological lackey and a subtle ironist In poetry he is either a compliant pastoralist or an engaged social critic Yet Goldsmith's career is as complex and as contradictory as the enlightenment currents across which he wrote and there is in Goldsmith's oeuvre a set of themes including his opposition to the new imperialism and to glibly declared principles of liberty which this book addresses as a manifestation of his Irishness Michael Griffin places Goldsmith in two contexts one is the intellectual and political culture in which he worked as a professional author living in London the other is that of his nationality and his as yet unstudied Jacobite politics Enlightenment in Ruins thereby reveals a body of work that is compellingly marked by tensions and transits between Irishness and Englishness between poetic and professional imperatives and between cultural and scientific spheres
