Changing Self-Destructive Habits Matthew D. Selekman, Mark Beyebach, 2014-09-25 For the first time in one volume, self-harm, substance abuse, eating disorders, behavior, gambling, and Internet and cybersex abuse, five crippling self-destructive behaviors are given a common conceptual framework to help with therapeutic intervention. Matthew Selekman and Mark Beyebach, two internationally recognized therapists, know first-hand that therapists see clients who have problems with several of these habits in varying contexts. They maintain an optimistic, positive, solution-focused approach while carefully addressing problems and risks. The difficulties of change, the risk of slips and relapses, and the ups and downs of therapeutic processes are widely acknowledged and addressed. Readers will find useful hands-on therapeutic strategies and techniques that they can use in both individual and conjoint sessions during couple, family, and one-on-one therapy. Detailed case examples provide windows to therapeutic processes and the complexities in these cases. Clinical interventions are put in a wider research context while research is reviewed and used to extract key implications of empirical findings. This allows for a flexible and open therapeutic approach that therapists can use to integrate techniques and procedures from a variety of approaches and intervention programs.
