The Exalted Heroine And The Triumph Of Order:

The Exalted Heroine and the Triumph of Order K. G. Hall, 1993 The first part of this study provides background information to the eighteenth century English novel and includes discussion of the relationship between literature and ideology literary realism the fiction reading purchasing public and authorial intention and technique The second focuses on seven diverse yet representative novels of the period paying particular attention to the presentation of class women and religion in the works examined Whilst no grand theory is proposed the writer seeks to utilise an approach derived from sociological and Marxist thought and to employ it as a practical mode of criticism Although some familiarity with the novels is assumed in the individual analyses of each work the first part of the study should be of interest to anyone curious about eighteenth century fiction and the more general issues considered Gender and Utopia in the Eighteenth Century Brenda Tooley, 2016-04-15 Focusing on eighteenth century constructions of symbolic femininity and eighteenth century women's writing in relation to contemporary utopian discourse this volume adjusts our understanding of the utopia of the Enlightenment placing a unique emphasis on colonial utopias These essays reflect on issues related to specific configurations of utopias and utopianism by considering in detail English and French texts by both women Sarah Scott Sarah Fielding Isabelle de Charrière and men Paltock and Montesquieu The contributors ask the following questions In the influential discourses of eighteenth century utopian writing is there a place for woman and if so what or where is it How do women disrupt confirm or ground the utopian projects within which these constructs occur By posing questions about the inscription of gender in the context of eighteenth century utopian writing the contributors shed new light on the eighteenth century legacies that continue to shape contemporary views of social and political progress The Anti-Jacobin Novel M. O. Grenby, 2001-09-06 The French Revolution sparked an ideological debate which also brought Britain to the brink of revolution in the 1790s Just as radicals wrote Jacobin fiction so the fear of rebellion prompted conservatives to respond with novels of their own indeed these soon outnumbered the Jacobin novels This was the first survey of the full range of conservative novels produced in Britain during the 1790s and early 1800s M O Grenby examines the strategies used by conservatives in their fiction thus shedding new light on how the anti Jacobin campaign was understood and organised in Britain Chapters cover the representation of revolution and rebellion the attack on the new philosophy of radicals such as Godwin and Wollstonecraft and the way in which hierarchy is defended in these novels Grenby's book offers an insight into the society which produced and consumed anti Jacobin novels and presents a case for reexamining these neglected texts Host Bibliographic Record for Boundwith Item Barcode 30112114734418 and Others, 1868 What Made the Eighteenth Century Writers and Their Novels Stefano Mochi, 2023-05-26 This book examines eighteenth century novels with a focus on the skills that readers were expected to master in order to read these works It analyses how such skills were shaped by the cultural and political climate of the time Starting with a review of the debate on education that began in England in the eighteenth century and the way it was influenced by philosophers such as John Locke it then discusses the demands that novelists like Defoe Fielding Sterne Godwin Smollett and Richardson made concerning this subject Various scientific philosophical religious and linguistic theories are used to examine the issues above Chaos Theory Wittgenstein's idea of logical space Grice's cooperative principle Aristotle's poetics and de Molinos Quietism British Reports, Translations and Theses British Library. Eliot and Western Philosophy Rafey Habib, 1999-06-28 Study of Eliot's philosophical writings assessing their impact on his early poetry and literary criticism English Novel Explication, 1976 New Approaches to Religion and the Enlightenment Brett C. McNelly, Paul E. Kerry, 2018-11-09 The Enlightenment an eighteenth century philosophical and cultural movement that swept through Western Europe has often been characterized as a mostly secular phenomenon that ultimately undermined religious authority and belief and eventually gave way to the secularization of Western society and to modernity To whatever extent the Enlightenment can be credited with giving birth to modern Western culture historians in more recent years have aptly demonstrated that the Enlightenment hardly singled the death knell of religion Not only did religion continue to occupy a central place in political social and private life throughout the eighteenth century but it shaped the Enlightenment project itself in significant and meaningful ways The thinkers and philosophers normally associated with the Enlightenment to be sure challenged state sponsored church authority and what they perceived as superstitious forms of belief and practice but they did not mount a campaign to undermine religion generally A more productive approach to understanding religion in the age of Enlightenment then is to examine the ways the Enlightenment informed religious belief and practice during the period as well as the ways religion influenced the Enlightenment and to do so from a range of disciplinary perspectives which is the goal of this collection The chapters document the intersections of religious and Enlightenment ideas in such areas as theology the natural sciences politics the law art philosophy and literature Global Identities in Transit Bouchra Benlemlih, Lahoussine Hamdoun, 2022-03-28 Global Identities in Transit The Ethics and Politics of Representation in World Literatures and Cultures explores the myriad aspects of identity formation and identity representation in an increasingly globalized world Covering a variety of cultural and historical experiences in addition to several texts of world literatures the contributors discuss the configurations of transnationality and transculturality in our postcolonial and globalized world Acknowledging that nationality ethnicity gender and class are continually shaped by historical processes the contributors hone in on the ways that the increase in mobility via migration diaspora and exile render identities always in transit In the face of structural inequalities and social injustices predominant in this context the chapters reflect on the moral obligations of representation This collection will be of interest to scholars of cultural studies postcolonial studies and world literature The BRITS Index: Title index British Theses Service, 1989 Latitudinarianism and Didacticism in Eighteenth-century Literature Patrick Müller, 2009 The relationship between Latitudinarian moral theology and eighteenth century literature has been much debated among scholars. However, this issue can only be tackled if the exact objectives of the Latitudinarians' moral theology are clearly delineated. In doing so, Patrick Miller unveils the intricate connection between the didactic bias of Latitudinarianism and the resurgent interest in didactic literary genres in the first half of the eighteenth century. His study sheds new light on the complex and contradictory reception of the Latitudinarians' controversial theses in the work of three of the major eighteenth century novelists: Henry Fielding, Laurence Sterne, and Oliver Goldsmith.

Terrorism, Technology and Apocalyptic Futures Maximiliano E. Korstanje, 2019-03-15. This book centers on the power of mythical narratives and technology in creating the idea of a world that should be purged. The introduction of sin, the fall, and other disruptive conflict have led mankind towards a world of scarcity where suffering and sacrifice prevail. The author analyzes this apocalypse theory which describes humans' perversion by the use of technology, self-consciousness, and knowledge. Based on an anthropological viewpoint, the book not only discusses the nature of bottom days but explores other related sub-themes such as capitalism, terrorism, dark tourism, the essence of evil, and the power of prophecy, coining the term thana capitalism to denote a new stage of capitalism where death is the main commodity exchanged.

Charlotte Smith Loraine Fletcher, 1998-06-22. Sold a legal prostitute when married off at the age of fifteen, Charlotte Smith left her wastrel husband to support herself and their children as a poet and novelist who would have a lasting influence on William Wordsworth and Jane Austen. Combative and witty, she became a radical, controversial, and very popular author at a time when the French Revolution was raising high hopes of Reform; she argued for change in England too. Loraine Fletcher's vivid scholarly biography is as readable for the newcomer to the 1790s as for the specialist tracing the embattled life in the wonderfully self-dramatising fiction.

The World According to Bridget Jones Katarzyna Smoczyńska, 2007. The World According to Bridget Jones: Discourses of Identity in Chicklit Fictions examines the cultural functioning of a popular contemporary strand in mainstream Anglo-American literature known as chicklit. Assuming that the interpretive potential of chicklit novels is connected with the process of identity formation, the book points out the possibility of the reader's identification with certain fictional discourses permeating the convention. The study focuses on complex links between Anglo-American cultural discourses and narrative constructions of identity and explores narrative representations of contemporary family, love, and sexuality. It also tackles the relation between chicklit and consumerism, reconstructing salient characteristics of contemporary consumer culture and the position of the fictional female consumer within discourses of body, beauty, and shopping.

Excess and the Mean in Early Modern English Literature Joshua Scodel, 2009-02-09. This book examines how English writers from the Elizabethan period to the Restoration transformed and contested the ancient ideal of the virtuous mean As early modern authors learned at grammar school and university Aristotle and other classical thinkers praised golden means balanced between extremes courage for example as opposed to cowardice or recklessness By uncovering the enormous variety of English responses to this ethical doctrine Joshua Scodel revises our understanding of the vital interaction between classical thought and early modern literary culture Scodel argues that English authors used the ancient schema of means and extremes in innovative and contentious ways hitherto ignored by scholars Through close readings of diverse writers and genres he shows that conflicting representations of means and extremes figured prominently in the emergence of a self consciously modern English culture Donne for example reshaped the classical mean to promote individual freedom while Bacon held extremism necessary for human empowerment Imagining a modern rival to ancient Rome georgics from Spenser to Cowley exhorted England to embody the mean or lauded extreme paths to national greatness Drinking poetry from Jonson to Rochester expressed opposing visions of convivial moderation and drunken excess while erotic writing from Sidney to Dryden and Behn pitted extreme passion against the traditional mean of conjugal moderation Challenging his predecessors in various genres Milton celebrated golden means of restrained pleasure and self respect Throughout this groundbreaking study Scodel suggests how early modern treatments of means and extremes resonate in present day cultural debates
