Geison, 2015-03-08 Despite great ferment and activity among historians of science in recent years the history of physiology after 1850 has received little attention Gerald Geison makes an important contribution to our knowledge of this neglected area by investigating the achievements of English physiologists at the Cambridge School from 1870 to 1900 He describes individual scientists their research the scientific issues affecting their work and socio institutional influences on the group He pays special attention to the personality and contributions of Michael Foster founding father of the Cambridge School Foster s specific research interest was the origin of the rhythmic heartbeat and the author contends that the school itself descended from and developed around this concern Originally published in 1978 The Princeton Legacy Library uses the latest print on demand technology to again make available previously out of print books from the distinguished backlist of Princeton University Press These editions preserve the original texts of these important books while presenting them in durable paperback and hardcover editions The goal of the Princeton Legacy Library is to vastly increase access to the rich scholarly heritage found in the thousands of books published by Princeton University Press since its founding in 1905 Advances in Cancer Research , 1996-09-10 This volume of Advances in Cancer Research begins with a Foundations in Cancer Research articles by Harold Varmus He focuses on Andrew Lwoff who influenced a generation of scientists and how Dr Lwoff s influence on Howard Temlin in particular led to the identification of the cause of AIDS Hiroto Okayama and colleagues discuss the conserved control mechanisms of the G1 and G2 phases in fission yeasts and mammals and the newly identified control genes Nilis Mandahl presents the cytogenetic findings in bone and soft tissue tumors and introduces the major molecular genetic findings Hannel Tapiovaara and co workers review plasmin generation at restricted areas of the cell surface and hypothesize that it may be a catalyst for tumor cells to metastasize No l Bouck et al review the evidence suggesting that certain types of stimulations of inducers by activated oncogenes and decreased production of inhibitors of angiogenesis may be instrumental in enabling developing tumour cells to attract new cells and continue the malignant growth Peter L Stern reviews the role of immunity and the prospects for immune intervention in cervical neoplasia Lastly Denis J Moss and his associates discuss the Epstein Barr virus EBV host virus relationship and the immune control of EBV infections and examine development of vaccines and immunotherapy

Conceptual Foundations for Multidisciplinary Thinking Stephen Jay Kline, 1995-01-01 Our current intellectual system provides us with a far more complete and accurate understanding of nature and ourselves than was available in any previous society This gain in understanding has arisen from two sources the use of the scientific method and the breaking up of our intellectual enterprise into increasingly narrower disciplines and research programs However we have failed to keep these narrow specialities connected to the intellectual enterprise as a whole The author demonstrates that this causes a number of difficulties We have no viewpoint from which we can understand the relationships between the disciplines and lack a forum for adjudicating situations where different disciplines give conflicting answers to the same problem We seriously underestimate the differences in methodology and in the nature of principles in the various branches of science This provocative and wide ranging book provides a detailed analysis and possible solutions for dealing with this problem The Therapeutic Revolution Morris J. Vogel, Charles E. Rosenberg, 2017-01-30 This book is not about one glorious triumph after another nor is it a series of complaints about doctors and hospitals Rather these essays examine American medicine within its context sensitive to the role of medical knowledge practitioners and institutions in the nineteenth and twentieth centuries The selections not only cover general considerations of the social and cultural context in which American medicine developed but also analyze the relationship between science and medicine the development of mental hospitals nursing and health insurance The Excitement and Fascination of Science George H. Bishop, 1965
