The Reproductive Body at Work Verena Namberger,2019-04-11 The transnational industry surrounding assisted reproductive technology and regenerative medicine is based on the unacknowledged labour of gamete providers surrogates and research subjects and benefits from low labour costs in enabling sectors such as logistics and transport This finding calls for a comprehensive analysis of how the contemporary intersection of neoliberal capitalism and the life sciences in short the bioeconomy capitalises on the body and its re productive capacities The Reproductive Body at Work uptakes this challenge as it explores the relations between value production labour and the body in one particular realm of the global bioeconomy the South African bioeconomy of egg donation It highlights different forms and dimensions of unacknowledged or precarious human labour that are constitutive for the procurement brokering and circulation of oocytes as valuable resources The analysis illustrates that the respective organisation of value and labour renegotiate what the re productive body can do which status and roles it is ascribed which cultural and economic values it signifies and how it is experienced and enacted within a matrix of intersectional power relations A theoretically profound contribution to the interdisciplinary debate on New materialism The Reproductive Body at Work will appeal to students and researchers interested in fields such as gender studies medical anthropology cultural studies sociology political economy and science and technology studies

Attention and Responsibility in Global Health Samantha Vanderslott,2021-09-14

Attention and Responsibility in Global Health shows the construction of health through what is neglected and how the label of neglect is used to make the case that a shift in attitudes towards tropical diseases is based on changing policy practices of health and disease Tropical diseases have moved from being of high importance for European empires to being neglected and unknown and then returning to the spotlight once again During this process the understanding framing and overall character of the disease grouping has changed through a rediscovery of a health issue once rendered neglectable The book depicts this change in relevance of tropical diseases from colonial history to the present day diseases across political cultural and socio economic contexts It shows the transformation of tropical diseases as a grouping that uncovers the changing strategies tactics and unintended consequences of advocacy campaigning by scientists NGOs and policymakers to drive disease issues up the policy agenda Drawing on the emergent field of ignorance studies the book explores ideas about the uses and deployment of both strategic and unintentional not knowing It is aimed at academics and students in science and technology studies the sociology of health and medicine environmental sociology public policy and the history of science
