Kamila Pawlikowska, 2015-10-05 Anti Portraits Poetics of the Face in Modern English Polish and Russian Literature 1835 1965 is a study of a physiognomic descriptions of the face It demonstrates that writers such as George Eliot Leo Tolstoy Edgar Allan Poe Nicolay Gogol Virginia Woolf and Witold Gombrowicz vigorously resisted the belief that facial features reflect character While other studies tend to focus on descriptions which affirm physiognomy this book examines portraits which question popular face reading systems and contravene their common premise the surface depth principle Such portraits reveal that physiognomic formula is a cultural construct invented to abridge organise and regulate legibility of the human face Most importantly strange and unreadable fictional faces frequently expose the connection between physiognomic judgement and stereotyping prejudice and racism The Man who Invented God and Other Fantastic Tales William Emmett Studwell,2004 mountains and carve a trade track for ever moving Caravans across the World even unto the White Lands where the people of the Fallen Star go about ever in masks and create things too wondrous to be mere magic In the forests where the Twins reign their worshippers live in eternal twilight and bend their backs at hoeing grains and drive their herds through the dangerous swaths of highgrass where the Bane lie in wait to steal children and cut the throats of intruders to drink of their blood But should these dangers overcome you the grey people of the goddess of Death will be there to guide you to the Far Lands where good and bad go alike to live again And beyond it s strange geography and cultures the World is an even more foreign place Here men make Tales And Tales make men and thing far stranger than men In the World all Tales are true Come The World awaits     THE THIRTY-NINE STEPS & Other Adventure Stories (7 Action-Packed Titles in One Volume)
