The Hermit Of Far End:

The Hermit of Far End Margaret Pedler, 2019-05-25 The Hermit of Far End is a book written by Margaret Pedler Originally published 1919 The Hermit of Far End Margaret Pedler, 2023-02-11 Reproduction of the original The Hermit of Far End Margaret (Bass). Pedler, 2023-07-18 This classic romance novel tells the story of a spirited young woman named Beryl Langham who inherits a mysterious old house on the Cornish coast When she arrives at Far End she discovers that the reclusive owner John St Vincent has been living there in seclusion for years As Beryl and John get to know each other they find themselves drawn together by a powerful attraction that defies their differences in class and temperament Margaret Pedler one of the most popular romance writers of the early 20th century imbues this story with a sense of mystery romance and adventure that continues to captivate readers today This work has been selected by scholars as being culturally important and is part of the knowledge base of civilization as we know it This work is in the public domain in the United States of America and possibly other nations Within the United States you may freely copy and distribute this work as no entity individual or corporate has a copyright on the body of the work Scholars believe and we concur that this work is important enough to be preserved reproduced and made generally available to the public We appreciate your support of the preservation process and thank you for being an important part of keeping this knowledge alive and relevant The Hermit of Far End Margaret Pedler, 1920 The Smuggler's Cave George A. Birmingham, 2021-05-19 In The Smuggler's Cave George A Birmingham crafts a captivating narrative set against the picturesque backdrop of Ireland's rugged coastline This novel intertwines elements of adventure and intrigue exploring the undercurrents of smuggling that plagued the region in the early 20th century Birmingham's literary style is marked by his keen observational skills and rich descriptive language which bring both the characters and the setting to life The dialogue is witty infused with the vernacular of the era reflecting the socio political climate of post colonial Ireland while the plot unfolds at a deliberate pace that draws the reader deeper into the shadows of the cave metaphorically and literally George A Birmingham was an Irish author dramatist and clergyman whose experiences and knowledge of maritime life heavily influenced his literary works His diverse background including a passion for travel and an affinity for storytelling are evident in his ability to vividly capture both the beauty and peril of Ireland's coastal landscapes Birmingham's awareness of the intricate relationships between the characters is likely rooted in his profound appreciation for human nature as well as his understanding of Ireland's complex historical context This novel is highly recommended for readers intrigued by tales of adventure steeped in historical significance Birmingham's adept characterizations combined with his insightful commentary on morality and consequence allow for a multifaceted reading experience The Smuggler's Cave is not merely a story of illicit trade it is a reflective exploration of identity community and the human spirit's resilience The Hermit of Far End Margaret Pedler, 2015-07-01 pose of her black clad figure which seemed to suggest a shorter tale of years Raven dark hair lustreless and dull framed a pale emaciated face from which ill health had stripped almost all that had once been beautiful Only the immense dark eyes feverishly bright beneath the sunken temples and the still lovely line from jaw to pointed chin remained unmarred their beauty mocked by the pinched nostrils and drawn mouth and by the scraggy almost fleshless throat It might have been the face of a dead woman so still so waxen was it were it not for the eager brilliance of the eyes In them fixed watchfully upon the closed door was concentrated the whole vitality of the failing body

The Red Cross Barge Marie Belloc Lowndes, 2022-09-16 In The Red Cross Barge Marie Belloc Lowndes crafts a compelling narrative set against the backdrop of World War I intertwining themes of love sacrifice and the enduring human spirit amidst the chaos of war The novel employs a rich descriptive prose style that reflects Lowndes keen eye for detail and her deep understanding of the complexities of human emotions in tumultuous times The story revolves around a group of individuals aboard a barge repurposed for medical aid illuminating the often overlooked experiences of those who serve on the front lines of compassion and care Lowndes work resonates particularly within the literary context of early 20th century narratives that grapple with the impacts of war on personal lives and societal constructs Marie Belloc Lowndes an accomplished British novelist renowned for her psychological thrillers and social commentary draws on her experiences and observations during the war to create this poignant tale Her background as a writer for various newspapers and her involvement in the literary circles of her time provided her with a unique lens through which to explore the struggles faced by both soldiers and civilians during a period of unprecedented conflict For readers seeking a profound exploration of human resilience in the face of adversity The Red Cross Barge is a must read Lowndes rich storytelling and nuanced character development invite readers to reflect on the personal cost of war while also celebrating the selflessness of those who serve others This work stands as a testament to the power of literature to illuminate the complexities of the human experience

The Publishers Weekly, 1920

The Bookman, 1919

The Moon out of Reach Margaret Pedler, 2019-12-19 In The Moon out of Reach Margaret Pedler weaves a poignant narrative that explores the intricate dynamics of human relationships against the backdrop of early 20th century societal norms The novel is marked by its lyrical prose and psychological depth offering insights into the characters emotional landscapes as they navigate love ambition and societal expectations Set in a vividly rendered landscape the story encapsulates the desires and struggles of its characters particularly focusing on the themes of unattainable dreams and the quest for personal fulfillment reflective of the modernist literary context of its time Margaret Pedler an author with a keen eye for the complexities of human emotion was heavily influenced by her own experiences and the social transformations of her era Born in the late 19th century she became acutely aware of the shifting roles of women in society Her background in literature and journalism allowed her to craft narratives that not only entertain but also provoke thought regarding gender and identity which is distinctly felt in this novel I highly recommend The Moon out of Reach to readers who appreciate rich character driven stories that delve into the human psyche Pedler s skillful storytelling and emotional resonance make this work an essential read for those interested in early modernist literature and in understanding the struggles of individuals seeking their place in a rapidly changing world
