The Evolution of Civil-Military Relations in East-Central Europe and the Former Soviet Union Natalie Mychajlyszyn, Harald von Riekhoff, 2004-05-30 The dismantlement of the communist system of control of the military and its replacement with a democratic model is one of the most significant aspects of the post communist transition in East Central Europe and the former Soviet Union The success of democratic civil military reforms is an important and underappreciated measure of the state of democratic transitions in these countries and it also has important implications for and links with regional security and NATO relations This book examines the state of democratic civil military reforms in nine East Central and former Soviet states Czech Republic Hungary Poland Estonia Latvia Lithuania Bulgaria Russia and Ukraine An examination of these states is of particular interest and importance given their varied relationship with NATO a relationship that is influenced to a large extent by the amount of progress in reforming their post communist system of control of their militaries Following a comprehensive theoretical chapter on civil military relations the individual chapters consider the accomplishments as well as the outstanding shortcomings of democratic civil military reforms Overall the book argues that the weaknesses apparent in all these countries in the implementation of the democratic norms of civilian control of the military require continued attention in order to strengthen not only the relationship with NATO wither membership is already obtained or sought but also regional security in general

Turkey's Foreign Policy and Security Perspectives in the 21st Century Sertif Demir, 2016-04-23 This book aims at analyzing Turkish foreign and security policies in the 21st century. Turkey's foreign and security policies have become the focus of academic discussions since Turkey is located in the middle of the most unstable region in the world. Turkey's self-assured foreign policy has similarly attracted the attention of academicians worldwide. Meanwhile, Turkey's security policy has also been the subject of discussions as the country has been struggling with ethnic terrorism for 35 years. Furthermore, the US invasion of Iraq and the recent Syrian civil war along with other factors have caused religious radicalism to expand its power throughout the Middle East, which has heavily impacted on Turkey's security. Turkey's longstanding problems with its neighbors have also affected the general characteristics of its foreign policy, particularly leading to its securitization.

Armed Forces in Deeply Divided Societies: Lebanon, Bosnia-Herzegovina, Iraq and Burundi Eduardo Wassim Aboultaif, 2023-10-20 Eduardo Wassim Aboultaif critically analyzes civil military relations and the way armies are constructed in divided societies. To achieve that, the book looks at four case studies with deep divisions and whose armed forces have been reconstructed after civil wars. Lebanon and Bosnia Herzegovina represent two examples of consociational power sharing arrangements with functioning armed forces that enjoy wide popular support and are neutral in internal affairs. Iraq and Burundi, however, have semi-consociational provisions that have politicized the army and made it a partisan military that has either led to disintegration as in the case of Iraq or politicization and loss of legitimacy as in Burundi. The SAGE Encyclopedia of War: Social Science Perspectives Paul Joseph, 2016-10-11 Traditional explorations of war look through the lens of history and military science, focusing on big events, big battles, and big generals.
