The Face Of Things A Different Side Of Ethics:

The Face of Things Silvia Benso, 2000-06-01 Here is a book that dispels the traditional tendency of philosophy to ignore the alterity of things. Drawing on two major figures in the continental tradition, Levinas and Heidegger, author Silvia Benso engages them on the provocative issue of an ethics of things. She argues that Levinas advances an ethics without things and Heidegger proffers a conception of things without ethics. Taking up their respective meditations on ethics and things precisely at the point where they abandon such themes and exposing them to each other, Benso innovatively elaborates an ethical attitude toward things capable of celebrating their alterity, a demand rendered urgent and compelling by the contemporary environmental crisis. Creatively centered on a philosophical hermeneutics of tenderness, The Face of Things advances the everyday time of festivity as the novel dimension within which the alterity of things can be recognized, preserved, and celebrated.

Wittgenstein and Levinas Bob Plant, 2005-02-16 Wittgenstein and Levinas examines the oft-neglected relationship between the philosophies of two of the most important and notoriously difficult thinkers of the twentieth century. By bringing the work of each philosopher to bear upon the other, Plant navigates between the antagonistic intellectual traditions that they helped to share. The central focus on the book is the complex yet illuminating interplay between a number of ethical/religious themes in both Wittgenstein's mature thinking and Levinas's distinctive account of ethical responsibility.

The Possible Present Ugo Perone, 2011-10-01 The Possible Present unfolds from within a freely reinterpreted hermeneutic perspective and provides an original theoretical proposal on the topic of time. In dialogue especially with the philosophies of Husserl and Heidegger but resorting also to suggestions coming from a theological background, Barth and Bonhoeffer, the work proposes a personal and original theory of time centered on a conception of the present that does not reduce temporality to a succession of mere instants. When one claims that time is ungraspable, one refers neither to the past which is rather irretrievable nor to the future which is rather uncertain, but to the present. The present in which we are is in fact what fades from our hands without break. The present is a decisive threshold for finite existence. It is the threshold where past and future meet and can give birth to a livable horizon of meaning. Dilating the present and giving it a meaningful chance to be is a task for philosophy. It is the attempt of giving time to time and also giving it shape, place, and space. To succeed at this task while rediscovering the sources of a narrative way of thinking that in truth it has never abandoned, philosophy must go back and turn time into the primary object of discourse, like in stories which are precisely the attempt at disposing the temporal flow of events according to a meaning. Perone argues that in time, however what passes is not simply decline but rather something irreducible, an exteriority that must be said.

Incarnate Earth Matthew Eaton, 2023-03-10 Incarnate Earth reimagines the doctrine of Incarnation by extending the unity between Creator and creation beyond Jesus to the entire world. In dialogue with contemporary theologies of deep incarnation and the philosophy of Emmanuel Levinas, the author argues that the face of Christ is encountered in the cruciform demand for justice.

embodied in the creaturely finitude and vulnerability that grounds ethics Central to this vision is a recognition that the religious role functions at the heart of Jesus life the revelation of God and the redemption of the world are performed throughout the physical world irreducible to humanity or one heroic representative of the species Thus the human encounters the divine Christ in and as the face of any vulnerable thing animal vegetal elemental or otherwise not as a transcendent being mediated through humanity The radical nature of this reimagination necessitates renewed discussions of ecological and animal ethics calling for compassionate care for all vulnerable bodies insofar as this is possible It will be of interest to scholars of Christian theology and the philosophy of religion particularly those focused on ecotheology religious naturalism and environmental ethics

Expanded Painting Mark Titmarsh, 2017-08-24 The relevance of painting has been questioned many times over the last century by the arrival of photography installation art and digital technologies But rather than accept the death of painting Mark Titmarsh traces a paradoxical interface between this art form and its opposing forces to define a new practice known as expanded painting giving the term historical context theoretical structure and an important place in contemporary practice As the formal boundaries tumble the being of painting expands to become a kind of total art incorporating all other media including sculpture video and performance Painting is considered from three different perspectives ethnology art theory and ontology From an ethnological point of view painting is one of any number of activities that takes place within a culture In art theory terms painting is understood to produce objects of interest for humanities disciplines Yet painting as a medium often challenges both its object and image status expanding and creating hybrid works between painting objects screen media and text Ontologically painting is understood as an object of aesthetic discourse that in turn reflects historical states of being Thus Expanded Painting delivers a new kind of saying a post aesthetic discourse that is attuned to an uncanny tension between the presence and absence of painting

The Beautiful Animal Michael Lewis, 2018-06-20 Can philosophy conceive of a perfect animal Can it think of the animal as anything other than an imperfect human The book attempts to rethink the Hegelian dialectic so as to render it capable of assigning a proper place to the animal and in particular the beautiful animal and to rework the philosophy of nature so as to encompass the fossil The fossil itself teaches philosophy and in particular the dialectic how it must modify itself in order to encompass the beautiful animal in the form of what we term the fossilised dialectic resistant to the spiritualisation which will always leave the animal behind If philosophy can admit the animal in this way we might then ask what philosophy can learn from this animal that will have taken up residence in its home What does a specifically domestic animal teach us At the very least it shows us that the function we give to the furnishings of the house is not the only one and perhaps therefore that there is no single unique function In this way animals teach us the most philosophical lesson there is to see the world as it is in itself

Robot Rights David J. Gunkel, 2024-03-19 A provocative attempt to think about what was previously considered unthinkable a serious philosophical case for the rights of robots We are in the midst of a robot invasion as devices of different configurations and capabilities slowly but surely come to take up increasingly important positions in everyday social reality self driving vehicles recommendation algorithms machine learning decision making systems and social robots of various forms and functions

Although considerable attention has already been devoted to the subject of robots and responsibility the question concerning the social status of these artifacts has been largely overlooked In this book David Gunkel offers a provocative attempt to think about what has been previously regarded as unthinkable whether and to what extent robots and other technological artifacts of our own making can and should have any claim to moral and legal standing In his analysis Gunkel invokes the philosophical distinction developed by David Hume between is and ought in order to evaluate and analyze the different arguments regarding the question of robot rights In the course of his examination Gunkel finds that none of the existing positions or proposals hold up under scrutiny In response to this he then offers an innovative alternative proposal that effectively flips the script on the is ought problem by introducing another altogether different way to conceptualize the social situation of robots and the opportunities and challenges they present to existing moral and legal systems

Rethinking Life Silvia Benso, 2022-07-01 This volume gathers fourteen contributions written by Italian philosophers within the context of the precariousness and vulnerability revealed by the Covid 19 pandemic The pandemic compels us to rethink what is affected most by this global occurrence yet does not end with it that is life Beyond the geographical socio political and medical contexts in which the reflections originate Rethinking Life is deeply utopian presenting aspirations toward a different configuration of life and collective living centered on relational subjectivities interconnectedness interdependence and ultimately solidarity How does the pandemic what it represents and exposes call us to rethink our notion of life How does an episode of morbidity affect a fuller understanding of life Can such a hermeneutic shift be dared and sustained The sobriety of the reflections yields elegant incisive and direct prose of profound effect and immediacy and a captivating lucid and thought provoking narrative

Ecologies of Affect Tonya K. Davidson, Ondine Park, Rob Shields, 2013-06-01 Ecologies of Affect offers a synthetic introduction to the felt dynamics of cities and the character of places The contributors capture the significance of affects including desire nostalgia memory and hope in forming the identity and tone of places The critical intervention this collection of essays makes is an active consistent engagement with the virtualities that produce and refract our idealized attachments to place Contributors show how place images and attempts to build communities are rather than abstractions fundamentally tied to and revolve around such intangibles We understand nostalgia desire and hope as virtual that is even though they are not material they are nevertheless real and must be accounted for In this book the authors take up affect emotion and emplacement and consider them in relation to one another and how they work to produce and are produced by certain temporal and spatial dimensions The aim of the book is to inspire readers to consider space and place beyond their material properties and attend to the imaginary places and ideals that underpin and produce material places and social spaces This collection will be useful to practitioners and students seeking to understand the power of affect and the importance of virtualities within contemporary societies where intangible goods have taken on an increasing value Vision's Invisibles Véronique M. Fóti, 2012-02-01 Although philosophy today has abandoned its former fascination with transcendent invisibles it has left largely unexamined historical articulations of the divide between the visible and the invisible Vision's Invisibles argues that such a self examination is necessary for the sensitization of philosophical sight as well as for engagements with visuality in other domains To this end it investigates a range of challenging understandings of visuality in its relation to invisibles as articulated in the texts of key historical thinkers Heraclitus Plato and Descartes and of twentieth century philosophers including Foucault Merleau Ponty Nancy Derrida and Heidegger Proximity, Levinas, and the Soul of Law Desmond Manderson, 2006 The relationship between tort law jurisprudence and the ethics and phenomenology of Emmanuel Levinas
