Raffel, 2014-08-21 Facts may seem to be independent but in this study Stanley Raffel looks at them as expressions of commitment Medical records he believes furnish a principal example of the actively oriented character of the factual commitment and he draws on his experience of research among the records of a large modern hospital to demonstrate this He describes how records are produced and reorganized as records and discusses the grounds which provide for all the features of the records He looks at the act of observation in many apparently and concretely different places and analyses the activity of noticing viewing recording a spectacle where what is observed supposedly remains untouched by the observing Dr Raffel goes on to show that observation events records and criteria of assessment such as reliability and completeness lose their status as unexplicated verities and become instead decisive and consequential courses of action He points out too that the Socratic dialogues exemplify an orientation to commitment that even medical records paradoxically require if they are to be the matters of fact that they are

Institutions, Interaction and Social Theory Will Gibson,Dirk vom Lehn,2016-01-01 From hospitals and prisons to schools and corporations no matter how large or seemingly abstract all institutions are ultimately the result of the actions and interactions of people In this original and innovative text Gibson and Vom Lehn show the different ways in which studying people s own meaning making practices can help us understand the role of institutions in contemporary society Institutions Interaction and Social Theory takes the reader through the core conceptual foundations of Symbolic Interactionism Ethnomethodology and Conversation Analysis Engaging with a rich tradition in sociological thought it suggests that interactionist perspectives have remained largely absent in the study of institutions and how they contrast with and contribute to the broader field of research in institutional contexts With chapters on healthcare education markets and art and culture this text will be of interest to those studying institutions organisations and work in sociology and in business schools It will also be valuable for students of social theory interested in interactionism and in the challenges and opportunities of connecting complex theoretical discussions to real world examples
