Social Organization and Planned Development in Rural Java Sediono M. P. Tjondronegoro, 1984      The Village Concept in the Transformation of Rural Southeast Asia Mason C. Hoadley, Christer Gunnarsson, 1996 Using examples from Indonesia Malaysia and Thailand the book considers what scholarship has defined as a village within the rapid changes taking place in rural Southeast Asia      State and Society in Bali H. Geertz, 2022-07-04 Balinese texts temples theatre performances and rituals in seven essays are placed into specific political contexts in an effort to gain a deeper understanding of the changing relations between state and society on the complex island of Bali How have local communities been linked to various claimants to state sovereignty through Bali s history What have been the forms and functions of the institutions that have joined peasants with kings and bureaucrats How have these institutions changed and in what ways have they remained the same over the centuries How have these relationships been represented by Balinese to themselves And how should research on these issues be carried further forward The contributors to this volume I Gusti Ngurah Bagus Hildred Geertz Henk Schulte Nordholt Raechelle Rubinstein David J Stuart Fox Adrian Vickers and Carol Warren represent the disciplines of anthropology literature and history but all of them cut creatively across disciplinary lines In contrast to previous Bali research these studies put more emphasis on historical background and pay close attention to local Balinese perspectives Early and colonial history form the frame of several papers while others deal with major changes in the recent past While each paper taken alone has its own specialized concerns if the set is read as a series an outline can be discerned not only of Balinese history and culture but also of some characteristic features of the new research on Bali being carried out in the 1980s The interdisciplinary approach of this volume makes it challenging reading for a wider audience of Southeast Asianists

Land Use, Nature Conservation and the Stability of Rainforest Margins in Southeast Asia Gerhard

Gerold, Michael Fremerey, Edi Guhardja, 2013-06-29 Southeast Asia constitutes one of the world s most extended rainforest regions It is characterized by a high degree of biodiversity and contains a large variety of endemic species Moreover these forests provide a number of important and singular ecosystem services like erosion protection and provision of high quality water which cannot be replaced by alternative ecosystems However various forms of encroachment mostly those made by human interventions seriously threaten the continuance of rainforests in this area There is ample evidence that the rainforest resources apart from large scale commercial logging are exposed to danger particularly from its margin areas These areas which are characterized by intensive man nature interaction have been identified as extremely fragile systems The dynamic equilibrium that balances human needs and interventions on the one hand and natural regeneration capacity on the other is at stake The decrease of rainforest resources is to a substantial degree connected with the destabilization of these systems Accordingly the search for measures and processes which prevent destabilization and promote stability is regarded as imperative This refers to both the human and the natural part of the forest margin ecosystem      An Anthropological Critique
