How Kirsty Jenkins Stole the Elephant Elen Caldecott, 2010-07-05 Kirsty Jenkins adores the allotment her grandfather lovingly tends and just before he dies he asks Kirsty to look after it for him But when horrible Mr Thomas from the council insists it must go to the next person on the waiting list Kirsty is determined to find a way to keep her promise After pleading with Mr Thomas and demonstrating at the council offices Kirsty and her half siblings undertake their most daring plan of all to borrow the stuffed elephant from the museum that Mr Thomas loves so much in a last ditch attempt to gain his attention and understanding Perhaps this risky ruse might also shake Kirsty's dad from the quiet sadness he has fallen into ever since her grandfather died A warm funny and moving novel about family relationships dealing with bereavement green beans and marrows

Rezballers and Skate Elders David Kamper, 2025-06 Ethnographer and American Indian studies scholar David Kamper examines how Indigenous youth and adults are making basketball and skateboarding meaningful to their communities by sustaining the transmission of intergenerational knowledge and combatting intergenerational trauma Kamper looks at how the events and tournaments built around rezball are similar to powwows in how they bring people together across localized communities and generations and he coins the phrase skate elders for those who use the social nature of skateboarding to build community and mentorships Through a broad picture of North America Kamper demonstrates how Native peoples have long indigenized cultural practices and material culture to assert Native sovereignty creating joy and hope in the process In Rezballers and

Skate Elders Kamper considers how Native expressions of basketball and skateboarding show continuities with the historical transformation of practices that originated outside Indian Country to make them meaningful in Native life
