Sporting Relations:

British Sporting Relations with Apartheid South Africa Matthew P. Llewellyn, Toby C. Rider, 2024-11-25 The transnational anti apartheid sport boycott of South Africa represented the most prominent extended and controversial anti racism campaign in the history of sport Spearheaded by prominent British religious and anti colonial figures and exiled South Africans emboldened by communist and Global South support and legitimised by supranational political bodies such as the United Nations the Organisation of African Unity and the Commonwealth the sport boycott helped propel anti apartheid out of relative obscurity and struck at the very heart of a cultural practice that served an explicitly ideological function in Afrikaner society Britain held a dichotomous even paradoxical role as both prosecutor and defender of white South Africa This book utilises sport as a critical lens for understanding the dynamics and dichotomies of British attitudes towards the apartheid regime Debates over whether to continue or to cut sporting links with apartheid South Africa proved bitterly divisive The considerable weight the subject carried and the degree to which it saturated British political and social discourse for four decades speaks to its impact and importance British Sporting Relations with Apartheid South Africa represents the first archival based historical examination of Britain's sporting relations with South Africa throughout the apartheid era 1948 1994 Situating the analysis within the shifting multiracial and multicultural landscapes of postcolonial Britain and within global political cultural sporting and ideological debates the authors trace the origins and evolution of the transnational sport boycott and examine what inspired Britons to energise anti apartheid sport campaigns and in contrast what drove many others to vehemently oppose them at every turn Sport and International Relations ADRIAN BUDD, ROGER LEVERMORE, 2004-06-01 Sport plays a highly significant role in the lives of millions the world over and yet the impact of this global phenomenon on the subject of international relations has been neglected The contributors to this collection argue that sport remains both an underestimated and understudied aspect of international relations and that the growth of its importance should be seen in the complex interdependencies and global systems of governance The text examines how the expansion of professional sport and the revenues generated by mass media's links with sport have transformed the international political economy how sport contributes to nation building and notions of identity how sport is a significant facet of international diplomacy International sport is far from being peripheral to international relations This challenging and comprehensive introduction will be of interest to students and all those working in international relations and sport studies The Global Politics of Sport Lincoln Allison, 2004-08-02 Lincoln Allison Emeritus Professor of sport studies He is a well liked and well respected name in the field His previous The Changing Politics of Sport Frank Cass 1993 featured in a Daily Telegraph best seller list sports titles This subject matter globalisation of sport international sport politics forms a core part of sociology of sport courses now This is a fairly accessible text that will be more useful for lecturers than some related titles on offer see competition There's a broad market for this text with potential readers across the social independence and assertion However during the German occupation of Denmark Danish sport was part of a European collaboration which characterized a number of the occupied countries not least in the Nordic area After the Second World War Denmark embraced international body cultures with other European nations in particular Eastern martial arts Denmark too as part of trends in the European region and the world became caught up in sport as a powerful contemporary political statement This book was previously published as a special issue of the International Journal of the History of Sport

Australia's Asian Sporting Context, 1920s - 30s Sean Brawley, Nick Guoth, 2013-10-18 This book examines Australia's sporting relationships with the Asian region during the interwar period Until now Australia's sporting relationships with the Asian region have been neglected by scholars of Australian and Asian sports history and the broader field of Australia's Asian context Concentrating on the period of the 1920s and 1930s when sporting relationships between Australia and a number of Asian nations emerged in a variety of sports this book demonstrates the depth of these previously under examined connections The book challenges and complicates the broader historiography of Australia's Asian context a historiography that has been strongly influenced by the White Australia Policy and the Pacific War Why for example did white Australia so warmly welcome visiting Japanese sportsmen at a time when the Pacific region appeared to be inexorably sliding into a war that was informed by racial antagonisms This book examines sporting relations between Australia and seven Asian countries China Japan India Netherlands East Indies Philippines Malaya and Singapore and a range of sports including rugby football swimming hockey boxing cricket and tennis This book was published as a special issue of Sport in Society
