

and locked by the action spring, and the gun is again ready to be fired by a pressure on the trigger. The magazine holds four cartridges, which, with the one in the barrel, makes five shots at the shooter's command. Cartridges remaining in the magazine while any number of shots are fired do not become headed at the crimp so they will not enter the chamber freely. The gun has two extractors which withdraw the shell positively, even if the head be broken on one side. The hammer is light and quick; the trigger pull is smooth and easy. A safety catch, conveniently located in the trigger guard where it can not be moved accidentally, securely locks the trigger, and as the trigger is also the sear, there is no possibility of the cartridge being discharged by a jar. Then, too, the trigger is so balanced that it can not be jarred off even when not locked.

The gun is as safe as any on the market and in many respects it is the safest, but in addition to all this there is the solid breech. The receiver is solid on top, which keeps rain, dirt, rain, etc., from falling in; but a point of far greater importance to the shooter, and one to which we wish to call especial attention, is the fact that it is perfectly solid in the rear. The breech-bolt does not slide out, nor is there any opening of any kind in the rear; consequently it is impossible, no matter what might occur, for gas, grease, firing-pin, breech-bolt, bursted head of shell or anything else to fly back through the receiver into the eyes or face. But three models are made. They are, a plain gun, a trap gun and one for messenger or rifle service. All sorts of extras may be had, however, and barrels of different length or bores can be interchanged quickly. The gauge will be 18, and the standard length of barrel 33 inches. The standard gun takes five cartridges, but the company also makes one taking two cartridges.

The take down feature of this automatic shot gun permits the use of interchangeable barrels by which the owner can change the gun from a full or modified choke bore for field, duck, or trap shooting to a cylinder bore for snipe, brush shooting etc., thus having a variety of weapons practically with the one gun by this remarkable weapon.
