

EXPLORERS — and — EXPLORATION

Few human adventures can compare with those undertaken by explorers, those daring, often hot-headed men and women who from antiquity to the space age have gone in search of new lands.

Whether impelled by greed or curiosity, by national pride or a thirst for scientific knowledge, explorers have always had gripping tales to tell. Not only were there the dangers – of fevers, hostile tribes, impenetrable forests, icy wastes – but also the beauties and mysteries of the unknown.

This beautifully illustrated book recounts the stories of all the famous explorers – Alexander the Great, Columbus, Captain Cook, Livingstone, Scott, and numerous others. It also includes many less well-known expeditions. Here, for example, is the ancient Carthaginian who might have sailed as far as West Africa, the medieval Arab who reached China, the French expedition to Australia, the bloody conquest of Kamchatka.

An authoritative source of reference as well as a fascinating read, The Guinness Book of Explorers and Explorations is an indispensable companion for all those captivated by this most exciting field of human endeavour.
