Suicide In Alcoholism:

Suicide in Alcoholism George Earl Murphy, 1992 Alcoholics commit about 25% of the more than 30 000 suicides per year in the U S This unique revealing study discusses 50 actual cases of alcoholics who took their lives The first part of the book covers the background of the study the method of investigation and the life histories This leads to the identification of seven risk factors for suicide in alcoholics none of them acute Comparing those findings to the same factors in groups of living alcoholics shows that the risk factors are all more frequently present in the suicides than the living alcoholics Moreover they act in a cumulative fashion the greater the number of factors present the greater the risk of suicide The case histories describe how both alcoholism and its suicidal outcome span the ranges of age sex race and socioeconomic characteristics This accessible work offers a broad understanding of the determinants and predictors of suicide in alcoholics and indicates practical measures to prevent these suicides

Suicide: A Global Perspective Maurizio Pompili, 2012-09-19 In the year 2000 approximately one million people died from suicide a global mortality rate of 16 per 100 000 or one death every 40 seconds In the last 45 years suicide rates have increased by 60% worldwide Suicide is now among the three leading causes of death among those aged 15 44 years both sexes these figures do not include suicide attempts up to 20 times more frequent than completed suicide Suicide worldwide is estimated to represent 1 8% of the total global burden of disease in 1998 and 2 4% in countries with market and former socialist economies in 2020 Although traditionally suicide rates have been highest among the male elderly rates among young people have been increasing to such an extent that they are now the group at highest risk in a third of countries in both developed and developing countries Mental disorders particularly depression and substance abuse are associated with more than 90% of all cases of suicide however suicide results from many complex sociocultural factors and is more likely to occur particularly during periods of socioeconomic family and individual crisis situations e g loss of a loved one employment honour The economic costs associated with completed and attempted suicide are estimated to be in the billions of dollars One million lives lost each year are more than those lost from wars and murder annually in the world It is three times the catastrophic loss of life in the tsunami disaster in Asia in 2005 Every day of the year the number of suicides is equivalent to the number of lives lost in the attack on the World Trade Center Twin Towers on 9 11 in 2001 Everyone should be aware of the warning signs for suicide Someone threatening to hurt or kill him herself or taking of wanting to hurt or kill him herself someone looking for ways to kill him herself by seeking access to firearms available pills or other means someone talking or writing about death dying or suicide when these actions are out of the ordinary for the person Also high risk of suicide is generally associated with hopelessness rage uncontrolled anger seeking revenge acting reckless or engaging in risky activities seemingly without thinking feeling trapped like there s no way out

mollify that pain Shneidman 1 also pointed out that the main sources of psychological pain such as shame guilt rage loneliness hopelessness and so forth stem from frustrated or thwarted psychological needs These psychological needs include the need for achievement for affiliation for autonomy for counteraction for exhibition for nurturance for order and for understanding Shneidman 2 who is considered the father of suicidology has proposed the following definition of suicide Currently in the Western world suicide is a conscious act of self induced annihilation best understood as a multidimensional malaise in a needful individual who defines an issue for which the suicide is perceived as the best solution Shneidman has also suggested that that suicide is best understood not so much as a movement toward death as it is a movement away from something and that something is always the same intolerable emotion unendurable pain or unacceptable anguish Strategies involving restriction of access to common methods of suicide have proved to be effective in reducing suicide rates however there is a need to adopt multi sectoral approaches involving other levels of intervention and activities such as crisis centers There is compelling evidence indicating that adequate prevention and treatment of depression alcohol and substance abuse can reduce suicide rates School based interventions involving crisis management self esteem enhancement and the development of coping skills and healthy decision making have been demonstrated to reduce the risk of suicide among the youth Worldwide the prevention of suicide has not been adequately addressed due to basically a lack of awareness of suicide as a major problem and the taboo in many societies to discuss openly about it In fact only a few countries have included prevention of suicide among their priorities Reliability of suicide certification and reporting is an issue in great need of improvement It is clear that suicide prevention requires intervention also from outside the health sector and calls for an innovative comprehensive multi sectoral approach including both health and non health sectors e g education labour police justice religion law politics the media

The Biology of Alcoholism Benjamin Kissin, 2012-12-06 Pathogenesis is defined in Blakiston's Medical Dictionary as the course of development of disease including the sequence of processes or events from inception to the characteristic lesion or disease The central position of the word pathogenesis in the titles of Volumes 6 and 7 in itself connotes a bias on the part of the editors in favor of the disease concept of alcoholism inasmuch as the end product of the pathogenetic process is presumed to be a disease But the disease model as here conceptualized is vastly different from that of Jellinek or of Alcoholics Anonymous or of psychoanalysis In those theories alcoholism is seen as the inevitable consequence of some specific flaw in the heredity or the experience of the afflicted individual that inexorably leads to alcoholism In these present volumes the alcoholic syndrome is viewed rather as the outgrowth of the interaction of a variety of biological psychological and social influences which depending on the predominance of one or another may lead to different types of alcoholism This view which has been labeled the bio psycho social perspective encompasses a larger view of the dynamics of the development of alcoholism incorporating data from each of the phenomenologic levels involved An additional complication arises from the fact that the physiological and psychosocial stigmata of alcoholics which are probably most often the result of prolonged drinking frequently have come to be considered as causes of the disease
