Walter Boyne

Sukhoi Su24 Fencer Soviet Swingwing Bomber:

Sukhoi Su-24 Fencer E. Gordon, Yefim Gordon, Keith Dexter, 2005 The Fencer with its distinctive three position variable geometry wings is the Soviet counterpart to the American F 111 though somewhat smaller and lighter and to a lesser extent the Tornado Its origins certainly owed a lot to Soviet observation of the American TFX competition and the resulting swing wing variable geometry solutions First flown in 1971 it entered service from 1974 as a replacement for the Yak 28 and remains an important part of the Russian VVS inventory with several hundred having been in service It is able to carry a wide range of air to surface missiles and is capable of carrying out precision attacks in hostile airspace at night or during poor weather Much larger and more capable than previous Soviet aircraft it combines great penetrative ability with a heavy and varied bomb load but is such a versatile airframe that it has also been developed in various other versions including tactical bomber electronic warfare and reconnaissance As usual with the Aerofax series this book includes extensive detail of systems equipment weapons etc and a plethora of previously unpublished photographs and drawings Soviet V/STOL Aircraft

Michael J. Hirschberg, 1997 This important case study reports on the V STOL development activities in the Soviet Union As in the West the Soviets also began using flying test rigs in the late 1950s By combining the lift engines with modifications to existing engines the Soviets were able to deploy the Yak 38 Forger only two years after the Harrier The Forger was in service for 15 years before the political situation forced its retirement from service Packed with illustrations references glossaries and bibliographies this case study is a necessary resource for the studies of V STOL aircraft and systems designers
