Suicide Prevention Morton M. Silverman, Ronald W. Maris, 1995 Comprises 16 articles divided into four sections epidemiology and risk factors prevention theory and models a settings perspective and special topics Published simultaneously as Suicide and Life Threatening Behavior v 25 no 1 Spring 1995 Annotation copyright by Book News Inc Portland OR

Police Responses to People with Mental Illnesses Duncan Chappell, 2014-07-16 According to the World Health Organisation during their lifetime more than one quarter of all individuals will develop one or more mental or behavioural disorders Given prevalence data like this it is not surprising that wherever they reside on the planet many persons suffering from a mental disorder or as is more commonly termed in popular parlance a mental illness are likely to come into contact with police at some stage in their lives Indeed research conducted in a number of countries suggests that about 10 per cent of all community police work involves some form of interaction with a person with a mental illness From a police perspective these encounters are not only frequent but also often sensitive and challenging Despite the difficulties associated with this important aspect of community policing surprisingly scant attention has been given to the development of empirically tested and established best practice approaches to managing police interactions with persons with mental illnesses The literature that does exist is principally derived from North American sources although more recent and interesting developments have been reported in Australia and the United Kingdom The principal aim of Police Responses to People with Mental Illnesses is to seek to reduce this gap in the literature by providing an international overview of some of the latest research and policy developments in the field and the challenges still to be confronted in many places in overcoming cultural and associated barriers to protecting the rights of the mentally ill This book was originally published as a special issue of Police Practice and Research An International Journal

World Report on Violence and Health World Health Organization, 2002 This report is part of WHO's response to the 49th World Health Assembly held in 1996 which adopted a resolution declaring violence a major and growing public health problem across the world It is aimed largely at researchers and practitioners including health care workers social workers educators and law enforcement officials

Working with Suicidal Individuals Tony White, 2011-06-15 Working with Suicidal Individuals provides a comprehensive guide to understanding suicide the assessment of risk and the treatment and management of suicidal individuals It covers the theory behind suicidal behaviour using Transactional Analysis to explore the personality types of suicidal individuals and to understand their motivations
