Suitably Modern Making Middle Class Culture In A New Consumer Society:

Suitably Modern Mark Liechty, 2020-11-10 Suitably Modern traces the growth of a new middle class in Kathmandu as urban Nepalis harness the modern cultural resources of mass media and consumer goods to build modern identities and pioneer a new sociocultural space in one of the world's least developed countries. Since Nepal's opening in the 1950s a new urban population of bureaucrats, service personnel, small business owners and others have worked to make a space between Kathmandu's old and still privileged elites and its large and growing urban poor. Mark Liechty looks at the cultural practices of this new middle class, examining such phenomena as cinema and video viewing, popular music, film magazines, local fashion systems and advertising. He explores three interactive and mutually constitutive ethnographic terrains: a burgeoning local consumer culture, a growing mass-mediated popular imagination and a recently emerging youth culture. He shows how an array of local cultural narratives, stories of honor, value, prestige and piety flow in and around global narratives of progress, modernity and consumer fulfillment. Urban Nepalis simultaneously adopt and critique these narrative strands, braiding them into local middle class cultural life. Building on both Marxian and Weberian understandings of class, this study moves beyond them to describe the lived experience of middle classness, how class is actually produced and reproduced in everyday practice. It considers how people speak and act themselves into cultural existence, carving out real and conceptual spaces in which to produce class culture.

medi@sia T.J.M. Holden, Timothy J. Scrase, 2006-09-27 This new inter disciplinary book is the first comparative case based analysis of media panoply in and out of Asia today Examining what the authors call the media tion equation the contributors demonstrate the multiple links between media society and culture and advance the claim that media is the key means through which Asians experience understand effect and are affected by the worlds containing them Exploring a relatively neglected principle in cultural studies that context counts medi@sia highlights how the experiences of those encountering media messages differ depending on social economic political and ideational conditions Balancing social cultural and media theory with empirical research the essays in this collection provide a better understanding of the complex relationship between media and people's practices values and behaviour in contemporary Asia Mediating the Global Heather Hindman, 2013-09-18 Transnational business people international aid workers and diplomats are all actors on the international stage working for organizations and groups often scrutinized by the public eye But the very lives of these global middlemen and women are relatively unstudied Mediating the Global takes up the challenge uncovering the day to day experiences of elite foreign workers and their families living in Nepal and the policies and practices that determine their daily lives In this book Heather Hindman calls for a consideration of the complex role that global middlemen and women play not merely in implementing policies but as objects of policy Examining the lives of expatriate professionals working in Kathmandu Nepal and the families that accompany them Hindman unveils intimate stories of the everyday life of global mediators Mediating the Global focuses on expatriate employees and families who are affiliated with international development bodies multinational corporations and the foreign service of various countries The author investigates the life of expatriates while they visit recreational clubs and international schools and also examines how the practices of international human resources management cross cultural communication and promotion of flexible careers are transforming the world of elite overseas workers

Performing Power Arnout van der Meer,2021-02-15 Performing Power illuminates how colonial dominance in Indonesia was legitimized maintained negotiated and contested through the everyday staging and public performance of power between the colonizer and colonized Arnout Van der Meer s Performing Power explores what seemingly ordinary interactions reveal about the construction of national racial social religious and gender identities as well as the experience of modernity in colonial Indonesia Through acts of everyday resistance such as speaking a different language withholding deference and changing one s appearance and consumer behavior a new generation of Indonesians contested the hegemonic colonial appropriation of local culture and the racial and gender inequalities that it sustained Over time these relationships of domination and subordination became inverted and by the twentieth century the Javanese used the tropes of Dutch colonial behavior to subvert the administrative hierarchy of the state Thanks to generous funding from the Sustainable History Monograph Pilot and the Mellon Foundation the ebook editions of this book are available as Open Access OA volumes from Cornell Open cornellpress.cornell.edu/cornell-open and other Open Access repositories

The Trouble with Snack Time Jennifer Patico,2020-08-18 Uncovers the class and race dimensions of the cupcake wars In the wake of school lunch reform debates heated classroom cupcake wars and concerns over childhood obesity the diet of American children has become a crisis and the cause of much anxiety among parents Many food conscious parents are well educated progressive and white and while they may explicitly value race and class diversity they also worry about less educated or less well off parents offering their children food that is unhealthy Jennifer Patico embedded herself in an urban Atlanta charter school community spending time at school events after school meetings school lunchrooms and private homes Drawing on interviews and ethnographic observation she details the dilemma for parents stuck between a commitment to social inclusion and a desire for control of their children s eating Ultimately Patico argues that the attitudes of middle class parents toward food reflect an underlying neoliberal capitalist ethic in which their need to cultivate proper food consumption for their children can actually work to reinforce class privilege and exclusion Listening closely to adults and children s food concerns

The Trouble with Snack Time explores those unintended effects and suggests how the crisis of children's food might be reimagined toward different ends

DIY Style Brent Luvaas, 2013-07-18 Armed with cheap digital technologies and a fiercely independent spirit millions of young people from around the world have taken cultural production into their own hands crafting their own clothing lines launching their own record labels and forging a vast collaborative network of impassioned amateurs more interested in making than consuming DIY Style tells the story of this international do it yourself DIY movement through a major case study of one of its biggest but least known contingents the indie music and fashion scene of the predominantly Muslim Southeast Asian island nation of Indonesia Through rich ethnographic detail in depth historical analysis and cutting edge social theory the book chronicles the rise of DIY culture in Indonesia and also explores the phenomenon in Europe and the United States painting an evocative portrait of vibrant communities who are not only making and distributing popular culture on their own terms but working to tear down the barriers between production and consumption third and first world global and local What emerges from the book is a cautiously optimistic view of the future of global capitalism a creative collectivist alternative built from the ground up This exciting and original study is essential reading for students and scholars of anthropology fashion media studies cultural studies and sociology

Styling South Asian Youth Cultures Lipi Begum, Rohit K. Dasgupta, Reina Lewis, 2018-07-30 For South Asia fashion and consumption have come to play an increasingly important role in the lives of young people and in the formation of youth cultures Afghanistan Bangladesh Bhutan India Maldives Nepal Pakistan and Sri Lanka have all in related and distinctive ways been producing confident young fashion consumers who are proving to be an important market for fashion This book explores South Asian youth cultures and fashion across the countries of this region and their diasporas from a transnational perspective Through visual and textual analysis of film photography and digital cultures as well as ethnographic fieldwork the expert contributors look at how gender sexuality class the media and faith intersect with and style youth cultures By establishing the heterogeneous nature of South Asia and its youth cultures they also dismantle grand western narratives that tend to understand the region's diverse cultural modernity through the lens of homogeneity

Privatizing China Li Zhang, Aihwa Ong, 2015-07-22 Everyday life in China is increasingly shaped by a novel mix of neoliberal and socialist elements of individual choices and state objectives This combination of self determination and socialism from afar has incited profound changes in the ways individuals think and act in different spheres of society Covering a vast range of daily life from homeowner organizations and the users of Internet cafes to self directed professionals and informed consumers the essays in Privatizing China create a compelling picture of the burgeoning awareness of self governing within the postsocialist context The introduction by Aihwa Ong and Li Zhang presents assemblage as a concept for studying China as a unique postsocialist society created through interactions with global forms The authors conduct their ethnographic fieldwork in a spectrum of domains family community real estate business taxation politics labor health professions religion and consumption that are infiltrated by new techniques of the self and yet also regulated by broader socialist norms Privatizing China gives readers a grounded fine grained intimacy with the variety and complexity of everyday conduct in China s turbulent transformation
