languages and societies that derive from diverse groups of people thrown into close social contact. Most notably, Reinecke's keen sense of social justice has had a telling effect on the social history of Hawaii. Along with his persistent efforts to obtain a fair and equal share for wage earners in sharply stratified societies, his attention early became focused on their language. By encouraging others to study what he called marginal languages, he was able to bring to them and to the extraordinary issues theoretical and practical which they raise a measure of prestige both in the eyes of their speakers and in the increased attention accorded them by students of language and society. The book presents a description of Reinecke's life and work, the text of his own last paper on creolistics and seventeen papers which reflect the range and vitality of the field that he did so much to open. Some of the papers reflect the issue which has come to dominate creole studies: the debate over the role of universals and of specific substrata as competing explanations of the amazing similarities that creoles and perhaps pidgins also exhibit across the world. Many describe the intense language contact within which language contraction and expansion occur; they do this either directly or by supplying new data which will eventually feed such descriptions, and some are our belated response to calls which Reinecke made in the 1930s. Fifty years ago he saw the need for the kind of comparative studies which are only now under way; for example, Hazel Carter's paper which represents a pioneering attempt to compare the suprasegmentals of English-based Creoles on both sides of the Atlantic. In his last years, Reinecke strongly supported research on contact languages with non-European lexical bases. He thought this was the area from which future creole studies would derive the greatest theoretical and practical gain, and in this volume six papers answer his call by analyzing such pidgins and creoles.

Blue-Eyed Arabs of the North, Patricia Bjørnstad, 2015-10. The title Blue-Eyed Arabs of the North indicates Europeans, specifically Norwegians, who have been hugely successful in the oil business. They literally went from rags to riches. The story begins in rainy Stavanger, Norway, in the summer of 1989. Katie Hammerström, 43, an American divorcee, is newly married to Norwegian civil engineer Olaf Hammerström, 59, a kind and good man. Unfortunately, about the only thing they have in common is their religion which is New Age. Suffering from culture shock and dissatisfaction with her marriage, Katie wants to take a summer job teaching in England to get away for awhile. Olaf lets her go but with trepidation. In England, Katie is immediately taken under the wing of the director of studies at the boarding school where they work. The two quickly become friends and as time goes by draw ever closer. The school itself is a personality forming a strong foundation for the lives of teachers and students alike. What will Katie decide to do at the end of her summer job?

Asian Ethical Urbanism William Siew Wai Lim, 2005. The author, having lectured widely on subjects relating to architecture and urbanism around the region, has in-depth knowledge of Asian cities and their urban and architectural conditions. The book provides an alternative urbanism addressing the unprecedented urban explosion in the emerging non-Western economies and the increasingly prevalent post-modern conditions of pluralistic culture, tolerance of differences, fragmentation, and chaotic order. The book presents a radical theory of Asian ethical urbanism which transcends and discards the constraints and rigidity of modernist planning and situates its critical substances within the challenging conditions of Asian cities today.
