all being relevant and sometimes emotional This book explores the depths of the readers conscience challenging them to actually make a difference to stand up for what they believe in If you are looking for a pick me up a read on a long commute to work or just something different then Sunflower II has this in every way Part II is a clear movement from the first in the collection being more refined mature and thought through The clear message of equality and economical decline is key to the messages behind the book whilst being inter twined with the messages of love trust and sadness All poems individually hold separate meanings but as a collective they show how diverse society is with its multicultural issues that affect everyday life Some pomes are direct follow ups to part one showing the writers movement from child to young adult something which based the foundations for the authors passion towards writing the series The intial poem Evolution defines clearly how the author has moved forward both in terms of linguistics and maturity His faith in life and after life boasts glory and hope something which other poems such as Given Up with a sense of sombre remorse towards some and joy towards others There have only been a select few poems having been illustrated these forming the key poems to the book Poems illustrated are Carnivore Hooker That Child The Journey of Fatty and The Three Wise Monkeys Carnivore is a poem about society with clear indications towards political groups in the UK and how they have manipulated the economy to suit their needs Hooker is a poem which has been described by the author as his own thoughts on how people as individuals seek success in such a competitive world being forced to take high risks and removing anyone who stands in their way That Child is a direct follow on from Child in part one being a look back on how the child has grown and how his story has changed him into what he is today again being the final poem of the book The Journey of Fatty is possibly the most personal poem to the author second to Monsters as it shows the authors struggle with his weight and his journey with Slimming World expressing his fondness for the group and yet holding on to the memories of why he actually joined in the first place The Three Wise Monkeys is a collection of three poems which look at the world and nature it clearly shows no sign of holding back when attacking the human race as a collective for destroying greenland and the environment All in all Sunflower Part II is the follow up to a body of work taking over ten years to complete It is something the author is proud to have worked on and somehting which he hopes will inspire others to do the same

Scott, Brandtner, Eveleigh, Webber Esther Trépanier, 2022-10-15. Four artists who are today relatively or almost entirely unknown, one woman and three men nevertheless played a part in the aesthetic upheavals that led to abstraction in 1940s Montreal. Very active in the art milieu throughout the decade, Marian Dale Scott, Fritz Brandtner, Henry Eveleigh, and Gordon Webber captured the attention of critics of the time who employed the term abstract art to describe both non-objective works and bold formal explorations that retained some reference to visible reality. An examination of these artists' practices reveals a remarkable openness to international contemporary art trends. French, German, British, and American. Their work and its critical reception conjure a complex picture of the debates on abstraction that took place in Montreal during the 1940s, so often reduced to the controversies surrounding the emergence of the Automatiste movement. The artistic innovations of Paul mile Borduas and his group and the radical tone of their 1948 manifesto Refus global cemented their status as Quebec's abstract avant-garde but also had the effect of eclipsing other visions of abstraction being explored during the same period. This book reinstates the oeuvres of these forgotten protagonists in the narrative of abstract art, illustrating how their practices encompassed a variety of themes: emotion, science, human experience in the broadest sense but also as the Second World War unfolded, the violence that marked their era.
