The Pauline Corpus in Early Christianity Benjamin P. Laird, 2022-12-01 The Pauline Corpus in Early Christianity Its Formation Publication and Circulation offers a comprehensive and wide ranging examination of the canonical development of the collection of writings associated with the Apostle Paul The volume considers a number of clues from the New Testament writings ancient literary conventions related to the composition and collection of letters and a variety of early witnesses to the early state of the corpus such as biblical manuscripts canonical lists and the testimony of writers As a conclusion to these inquiries Laird argues that at least three major archetypal editions of the Pauline corpus those containing 10 13 and 14 letters appear to have been collected and edited as early as the first century These major archetypal editions Laird concludes circulated simultaneously for many years until editions containing 14 letters became nearly universally recognized by the fourth century The volume serves as a valuable resource of information for those engaged in the study of the early state of the New Testament canon and offers a fresh perspective on the process that led to the formation of the Pauline corpus

Dating Acts in its Jewish and Greco-Roman Contexts Karl Leslie Armstrong, 2021-01-14 There has been consistent apathy in recent years with regard to the long standing debate surrounding the date of Acts While the so called majority of scholars over the past century have been lulled into thinking that Acts was written between 70 and 90 CE the vast majority of recent scholarship is unanimously adamant that this middle range date is a convenient political compromise Karl Armstrong argues that a large part of the problem relates to a remarkable neglect of historical textual and source critical matters Compounding the problem further are the methodological flaws among the approaches to the middle and late date of Acts Armstrong thus demonstrates that a historiographical approach to the debate offers a strong framework for evaluating primary and secondary sources relating to the book of Acts By using a historiographical approach along with the support of modern principles of textual criticism and linguistics the historical context of Acts is determined to be concurrent with a date of 62-63 CE

Scribal Harmonization in the Synoptic Gospels Cambry Pardee, 2019-01-14 In Scribal Harmonization Cambry G Pardee examines the earliest Greek manuscripts of the Synoptic Gospels for evidence that scribes altered the text of the Gospels either deliberately or inadvertently in ways that eliminated discrepancies between them The phenomenon of harmonization demonstrates that a scribe's memories of previous experiences with gospel traditions could have a powerful effect on the manuscripts that they produced This book assembles for the first time a catalogue of harmonizing variants from every manuscript of Matthew Mark and Luke from the fourth century and earlier Far from reducing the unique voices of the individual evangelists to a single melody the earliest scribes contributed new tones innovative strains and fascinating harmonies to the four fold gospel tradition

Simply Come Copying Alan Taylor Farnes, 2019-02-06 La 4e de couverture indique How accurately did scribes copy the New Testament Alan Taylor Farnes analyzes copies of the New Testament with known exemplars in order to determine the scribal habits of New Testament scribes and concludes that the scribes did their best to copy with strict fidelity

Scribal Habits in Sixth-Century Greek Purple Codices Elijah Hixson, 2019-09-16 In Scribal Habits in Sixth Century Greek Purple Codices Elijah Hixson assesses the extent to which unique readings reveal the tendencies of the scribes who produced three luxury manuscripts of Matthew's Gospel The manuscripts Codex Purpureus Petropolitanus N 022 Codex Sinopensis O 023 and Codex Rossanensis 042 were each copied in the sixth century from the same exemplar Hixson compares the results of a modified singular readings method to the number of actual changes each scribe made An edition of the lost exemplar and transcriptions of Matthew in each manuscript follow in the appendices Of particular relevance to New Testament textual criticism is the observation that the singular readings method does not accurately reveal the habits of these three scribes included in this volume present Larry W Hurtado's steadfast analysis of the earliest Christian manuscripts. In these chapters Hurtado considers not only standard text critical issues which seek to uncover an earliest possible version of a text but also the very manuscripts that are available to us. As one of the pre-eminent scholars of the field, Hurtado examines often overlooked 2nd and 3rd century artefacts which are among the earliest manuscripts available, drawing fascinating conclusions about the features of early Christianity. Divided into two halves, the first part of the volume addresses text critical and text historical issues about the textual transmission of various New Testament writings. The second part looks at manuscripts as physical and visual artefacts themselves, exploring the metadata and sociology of their context and the nature of their first readers for the light cast upon early Christianity. Whilst these essays are presented together here as a republished collection, Hurtado has made several updates across the collection to draw them together and to reflect on the developing nature of the issues that they address since they were first written.

Hurtado, 2017-11-30 The essays

History of the Pauline Corpus in Texts, Transmissions and Trajectories Chris S. Stevens, 2020-06-15. In History of the Pauline Corpus in Texts, Transmissions and Trajectories, Chris S. Stevens examines the Greek manuscripts of the Pauline texts from P46 to Claromontanus. Previous research is often hindered by the lack of a systematic analysis and an indelicate linguistic methodology. This book offers an entirely new analysis of the early life of the Pauline corpus. Departing from traditional approaches, this text critical work is the first to use Systemic Functional Linguistics, which enables both the comparison and ranking of textual differences across multiple manuscripts. Furthermore, the analysis is synchronically oriented so it is non-evaluative. The results indicate a highly uniform textual transmission during the early centuries. The systematic analysis challenges previous research regarding text types, Christological scribal alterations, and textual trajectories.

The Cambridge History of Ancient Christianity Bruce W. Longenecker, David E. Wilhite, 2023-08-24. The first three hundred years of the common era witnessed critical developments that would become foundational for Christianity itself as well as for the societies and later history that emerged thereafter. The concept of ancient Christianity, however, along with the content that the category represents, has raised much debate. This is in part because within this category lie multiple forms of devotion to Jesus Christ, multiple phenomena, and multiple permutations in the formative period of Christian history. Within those multiples lie numerous contests as varieties of Christian identity laid claim to authority and authenticity in different ways. The Cambridge History of Ancient Christianity addresses these contested areas with both nuance and clarity by reviewing, synthesizing, and critically engaging recent scholarly developments. The 27 thematic chapters, specially commissioned for this volume from an international team of scholars, also offer constructive ways forward for future research.

The Bible in Ethiopia Curt Niccum, 2014-05-28. The Ethiopic version provides a window into the state of the Greek Bible as it circulated in East Africa at the end of the fourth century. It is therefore an extremely important witness to the Bible's early transmission history, yet its testimony has typically been ignored or misunderstood by text critics. This study examines the history of the book of Acts in Ethiopia and reconstructs its earliest attainable text which then is assessed using the latest text critical methods It therefore provides a solid base for interpreting the data of this key witness and lays the groundwork for future text critical work in Ethiopic and other early versions
