Technology Assessment Robin M. Nazzaro (au), Keith A. Rhodes (au), 2005-09 Since 1984 wildland fires have burned 850 homes each year the number of homes at risk is growing The primary responsibility for ensuring that preventive steps are taken to protect homes lies with homeowners state local gov ts not the fed gov t The ability to communicate among all parties fighting a fire known as interoperability is essential but is hampered because different public safety agencies operate on different radio frequencies or use incompatible communications equip This report assesses measures that can help protect structures from wildland fires factors affecting use of protective measures the role technology plays in improving firefighting agencies ability to communicate during wildland fires Charts tables

Technology Assessment Government Accountability Office, 2013-09-22 Since 1984 wildland fires have burned an average of 850 homes each year in the United States according to the National Fire Protection Association but because more people are moving to areas in or near fire prone wildlands the number of homes at risk is likely to grow Such areas where structures and other human development meet or intermingle with wildlands are commonly referred to as the wildland urban interface Technology assessment protecting structures and improving communications during wildland fires : report to congressional requesters. ,
